Woman, Trapped in Quarry, Found After Week's Search, Dying From Hunger, Thirst

AGED VICTIM RESCUED BY BOY SCOUTS

Mrs. W. M. Calvert, 58, Wanders From Home, Falls Into Pit; Goes Without Food, Water For Four Days

Police Search For Her Proves Futile; Youths Take Up Hunt, and Find Her in Deadfall in El Cerrito

BERKELEY, Oct. 21.—Cries for help coming from a deserted quarry in the hills adjoining Thousand Oaks this morning led to the discovery by Boy Scouts of Berkeley of Mrs. W. M. Calvert, 58, who has been missing for the past week from her home at 2816 Francisco street.

Without food since the time of her disappearance and with no water for the past three or four days, Mrs. Calvert was in a semi-conscious condition when the Scouts descended into El Cerrito canyon at the head of Yosemite avenue and found her.

The police ambulance was summoned and Officer R. A. Abbey removed Mrs. Calvert to the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. B. Merry, 1140 Walnut street, where she was placed under the care of physicians.

PLEAS FOR WATER
HELP ATTRACT SCOUTS

Weak and muffled cries for help and for water attracted the attention of Boy Scouts, who were scouring the hills for the aged woman.

Percy Shelly, field executive of the Berkeley Police Department, Waterbury, 12, Troop 19, and a nephew of Officer Frank Waterbury of the Berkeley Police Department, were the first to reach the woman's side.

They carried her to the crest of the canyon, where other members of Troop 19 assisted in giving first aid until the arrival of the police ambulance.

Among those in the group who aided in the resuscitation of the woman were her grandson, Fred Merry, and Robert Tucker, William Hunter, Hartley Denesche, Watson Bailey, Charles McDonough.

WANDERS WEEK WITHOUT FOOD.

Mrs. Calvert was unable to give a lucid account of her wanderings, but declared that she had no food since leaving her home last Saturday.

She was without water for several days.

According to her story, she has been wandering through the hills of Contra Costa and Alameda counties since her disappearance.

Mrs. Calvert dropped from sight last Saturday morning while she was on her way from her home to that of her daughter to celebrate her 58th birthday.

When her mother did not appear, Mrs. Merry investigated and notified the police. Berkeley officers have been searching the hills for the past week and have made several visits to the quarry where Mrs. Calvert was found today.

WOMAN HAD BEEN HOME

According to her daughter, Mrs. Calvert had been home for her former dwelling place in Idaho, whence she came a number of months ago to make her home in Berkeley.

In order to appease her mother's longings for her Idaho home, Mrs. Merry declared she had purchased her a new wardrobe and was preparing to send her on a visit there.

Longing for her former dwelling, and hallucinations from which Mrs. Calvert is declared to have been suffering, are believed to have temporarily unbalanced her mind.

Found in Pit
Mrs. W. M. Calvert, who was found in a pitful condition today in the El Cerrito canyon, thus ending a week's search for her.

Fifty Thousand Greet Rival
Teams Meeting to Break Old Tie.

Final score:
Harvard, 24; Centre, 10.
STADIUM, CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 21.—Fifty thousand spectators filled the huge horse-shoe and temporary wooden stands as Harvard and Centre met for the third time in three years to break the tie. Perfect weather and field conditions greeted the players. Centre squad, twenty-strong, was first on the field and were given a great round of applause. Roars of cheers then greeted the Crimson players.

In the first few minutes of play Harvard scored a touchdown. Gehrke kicked over Centre's goal line and on the first play at Centre's 20-yard line, Snowdum fumbled the ball on an end run and Pitts recovered for Harvard. Owen scored a drop kick for the seventh point. Buell made ten yards on Centre's kickoff and Centre recovered a fumble on Harvard's 40-yard line on the first play. Snowdum, Roberts and Covington made first down on line plunges. Covington's air pass was intercepted by Gehrke on Harvard's 21-yard line. Owen made four and Chapin ten through the line. Gehrke added three and five and then punted over Centre's goal.

Owen gained eight and Gehrke made 20 yards on a delayed pass. Owen and Gehrke added eight to Centre's 19-yard line. Owen added nine and four but Roberts stopped him the third time on Centre's six-yard line, but Gehrke went over on the next rush and Buell kicked an easy goal.

Score: Harvard 14, Centre 0.

Covington ran the ball to mid-field but fumbled on the first play, Owen grabbing it and running to Centre's 34-yard line. A perfect pass, Buell to Chapin, brought Harvard's third touchdown. Buell dropped-kicked for a point.

Score: Harvard 21, Centre 0.

Centre's kick off went out of bounds. Harvard gained five on a penalty, tried two unsuccessful plunges and punted to Centre's 42-yard line.

Score: Harvard 21, Centre 0.

The second period opened with Covington and Roberts in a great march down the field. At Harvard's 22-yard line Centre appealed to stop the thunderous applause. Centre's puzzling shift against Harvard's right wing brought the gains. Centre's end snapping the ball. The reinforced Harvard line then held and Covington was

TWO BANDITS ROB STATION AT MID-DAY

Daring Hold-Ups Operate in Full View of Throngs Passing on Seventh Street; Take Oil Agency Cash

Three Standard Employees Forced to Lie Down on Floor While Robbers Seize Loot and Flee in Auto

In a daring hold-up of a Standard Oil gasoline and oil station at Seventh and Lewis streets, two armed bandits obtained cash and coupon books estimated at several thousand dollars shortly before noon today.

Three Standard Oil Company employees were compelled by the bandits to lie down on the floor while they proceeded with the robbery.

The employees of the company who were at the station at the time were M. A. Small, a service station collector, J. J. Paulino and A. Bonterof, attendants at the station. None of them was injured.

The robbers, who were not masked, drove up to the service station in an automobile, in which they drove rapidly away following the robbery.

Small had just arrived at the station at Seventh and Lewis streets, when the two bandits drove up. They asked for two gallons of oil, which was supplied as they received the oil they drew automobiles, and ordered the three Standard Oil men to lie down on the floor.

Then they made a thorough search of Small's satchel, removed its contents, and of the station cash register, from which a small sum was taken.

According to the police the coupons which formed the greater part of the robbers' loot are all numbered and can be identified if an attempt is made to pass them.

Georgia's Grand Old Lady May Sit in Senate

By William K. Hutchinson,
(International News Service Staff
Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The prospect of Mrs. William F. Felton, "the grand old lady of Georgia," serving for a single day in the Senate as the nation's first "full fledged" woman Senator, became bright today as a movement was launched here in her behalf.

Friends of Mrs. Felton, who was appointed to temporarily succeed the late Senator Watson, Democrat of Georgia, are developing a plan which they believe will enable her to be seated should President Harding call a special session of Congress in November. Its success will depend upon the willingness of Judge Walter of Georgia, destined to fill Watson's unexpired term, to delay for several weeks after the election in obtaining his commission as the new junior Senator from Georgia.

Strongly partisan Republicans and anti-suffrage Senators are reported ready to oppose all movements to seat Mrs. Felton.

REDS WILL RULE AT VLADIVOSTOK

Soviet Withdraws Guarantee For Protection of Foreigners.

By JOHN GRAUDENZ,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

MOSCOW, Oct. 21.—The Soviet government has withdrawn its guarantee of protection to foreigners at Vladivostok, owing to the Japanese demand that the mikado's troops must be permitted to complete evacuation of the city before the Russians march in, Foreign Minister Tchitcherine told the United Press today.

Under this plan, the city will be clear of both Japanese and Russian troops for a time, and the Soviet government will not be responsible for what may occur during that period.

MARINES LAND TO PROTECT FOREIGNERS.

American and British marines are reported to have landed at Vladivostok to protect foreigners. The situation at Vladivostok is this:

The Japanese have agreed to withdraw and let the troops of the Russian Far Eastern army occupy the city.

Tchitcherine said to the United Press correspondent today that the Japanese are demanding the Russians withdraw to a considerable distance and enter Vladivostok only after the Japanese have marched out, some time after October 25.

The soviet commanders protest that a dangerous period will ensue. "All responsibility for everything which may happen falls upon the Japanese, especially as they already have begun destroying the fortifications, artillery depots and explosives," said Tchitcherine.

MOSCOW, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Far Eastern Red army is within fifteen miles of Vladivostok, according to a despatch received here from Chita.

Oregon State Guards Ready to Prevent "Wobblies" From Swarming in to Take Hand in Waterfront Strike

Rock Pile Is Promised For All Undesirables; Los Angeles Will Order Invaders to Move on as They Arrive

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 21.—State troops will be ordered to Portland if the I. W. W. horde swarms here from all over the country to take a hand in the waterfront strike.

Announcement was made today by Governor Olcott that Adjutant General White would be detailed to keep close watch on conditions. Mayor Baker had previously asked that the adjutant general be ready at a minute's notice to despatch troops here in case the situation should warrant it.

Coincident with this development was official announcement by the city advising the general defense committee of the I. W. W. at Chicago that its members will do well to remain away from Portland. The committee had informed Mayor Baker that arresting men merely because they belong to the "wobblies" organization is unconstitutional, in its opinion. Corroborative information that thousands of wobblies had been urged to come to Portland was given today by B. A. Green, local attorney for the I. W. W. He admitted, too, that 20,000 "wobblies" had been instructed to report here.

MANY WOBBLIES ESCORTED FROM CITY.

"If the city forces I. W. W.'s on the rockpile, the taxpayers will have to feed them all winter," Green challenged.

"We can use a lot of crushed rock on our roads," Mayor Baker answered.

No violence has occurred so far in the strike. Extra police guards are being detailed to the waterfront all day and night.

They were escorted out of the city today. Other deportations from Portland will follow, police assure. Answering organized labor's statement that it is back of the strike, Mayor Baker asserted that if the organization links up with the "wobblies" he predicted labor's ultimate end.

I. W. W. NOT WANTED IN LOS ANGELES.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—(By Associated Press.)—Members of the Industrial Workers of the World, including those now reported to have been started toward the California line by the authorities of Portland, Ore., will be ordered to leave on if they come to Los Angeles, it was stated by Chief of Police Louis D. Ochs.

Chief Ochs announced completion of plans and appointment of detectives to prevent what he said he had been informed was an organized movement of members of that organization to this city.

"We will keep them moving before they get a chance to make an invasion," the chief said.

Woman Is Scalped When Hit by Auto

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Literally scalped by the driving shaft of an automobile which ran her down at Sutter street and Van Ness avenue early today, Mrs. Agnes Johnson, 35 years old, of 25 Jersey street, received injuries which will likely cause her death. Not only was her hair caught and her entire scalp torn off, but her right ear was severed, her left leg broken, her left arm fractured and both shoulders mashed.

Mrs. Johnson is a prominent member of the Eastern Star, and had been attending a meeting of the Scottish Rite Temple. She crossed Van Ness avenue to wait for a municipal car when the automobile driven by Homer Wilson bore down upon her. She was run over and picked up in a serious state. After treatment at L. A. Central Emergency hospital she was removed to St. Luke's hospital.

Wilson, who said he was a mariner, living at 1477 Jackson street, was charged with reckless driving.

British Protest Against Seizure of Canadian Whisky Carrier to Be Answered With "Regret" By State

Dry Agents "Blundered" in Boarding Schooner Eight Miles Off Shore and Enforcing Its Surrender

By W. H. ATKINS,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—American prohibition agents "blundered" when they seized the Canadian schooner Emerald with a liquor cargo off the New Jersey coast—an act for which this government must now express "regret" to the British government, it was disclosed officially at the Treasury department today. For the first time since the dry era began the State department will be called upon to apologize to a foreign government for over-zealous enforcement of United States liquor laws.

The official inquiry today established to the satisfaction of Secretary Mellon that when the dry chaser Hahn ventured eight miles off shore, trained her gun upon the liquor-laden Emerald, and brought her into the port of New York, American officers committed a serious breach of international comity and agreement. The facts are said to establish that the Emerald had not established communication with the American shore by means of her own boats or her crew.

The British government's protest, the first of its kind lodged with the State department, challenging the right of this government to seize the British boat, is now held by the Treasury department to have been well-taken.

The British Embassy will receive a response to its protest very promptly because there now is no question as to the facts surrounding the seizure. The State department will be called upon to make restitution to the owners of the Canadian schooner. The Department of Justice is declared that District Attorney General Nathan D. Clegg will take immediate steps to restore to the Canadian shipowners the 1000 cases of whisky which were aboard the Emerald at the time she was towed into the port, and further steps will be taken in order to compensate the owners against other losses sustained.

EX-PREMIER MADE CHIEF OF LIBERALS

Lloyd George Greeted By Ovation When He Opens Campaign to Return to Head of the Government

Former Prime Minister Says Opponents Will Feel His Sword's Weight; Confident He Is Gaining Support

LEEDS, England, Oct. 21.—(By International News Service.) David Lloyd George, former premier, was today elected president of the National Liberal Council, and former Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill was elected vice-president. This makes Lloyd George leader of the Liberal party.

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASING WIRE TO TRIBUNE.
LEEDS, England, Oct. 21.—The banner of party strife has been hoisted at the Carlton Club. The people must decide whether the party or the nation comes first. I stand for the people.

With those words Lloyd George today opened his campaign for restoration to the premiership in a speech delivered to a crowd of 3000 here.

The former prime minister, who is fighting to form a new party and stage a "comeback" which will place him in power again, was greeted with thunderous applause wherever he appeared in public.

"The Welsh wizard is known to be tremendously encouraged by the rousing reception he has been accorded. He believes he is gaining votes every hour for his battle with the Tories, upon which he has declared war."

BARES SWORD FOR OPPONENTS.

"My sword is in my hand, and they shall feel its weight," he declared, in one of his speeches from his railway carriage on the trip to Leeds.

With the coalition broken up and Bonar Law's endeavoring to form a conservative ministry, Lloyd George is concentrating all his efforts on forming a strong, dangerous Georgian party, which he expects to see enter the house of parliament after the next election.

Lloyd George is happy, eager and full of his old fire. His eyes twinkled with glee as the shouting crowds thronged around his railway carriage and pressed against police lines to cheer him as he rode through the streets. He seemed to enjoy being "the outside looking in" for a change, and displayed as much energy as in his younger campaigning days.

MANNER BREEZY AND BANTERING.

His manner, as he addressed the crowds, was breezy and bantering. "I thank you for coming out to greet one of the unemployed," he said to the assemblage at Bedford.

Mrs. Lloyd George was at his shoulder whenever he appeared and came in for her share of the cheers.

Both Lloyd George and his wife realize that demonstrations of the past were for the prime minister—the head of the government—whereas the ovations of the last 24 hours have been for "good old Lloyd George," who for years mercilessly goaded the party in power. Even the opposition newspapers express surprise at the cordiality shown him by crowds everywhere. Papers supporting him assert that many Tories are deserting their party and turning out to yell for Lloyd George.

CLAIMS ISSUE IS CLEAN CUT.

The issue, as the little Welshman presented it, is clean cut. "Shall the nation be governed from the standpoint of party welfare or public welfare?"

He accused the Conservatives of having decided in favor of party welfare when they broke away from the coalition at their meeting at the Carlton Club.

He announced himself as the champion of the people in a fight to restore a government which will look out for their interests, in preference to party interests.

Introducing Lloyd George to the enthusiastic audience, Lord Altrdale declared the Yorkshire Liberals will not forsake the man who "represents democracy and victory."

OVATION GIVEN TO LIBERAL LEADER.

The cheers that went up as Lloyd George stepped forward to speak shook the rafters.

The coalition was broken up.

WOMAN'S DAUGHTERY FOR 'DRY' RULING

Lasker Says Taking of Liquor From Ship Is Blow to Merchant Marine.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Across a banquet board last night, A. D. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, told Attorney General Daugherty and the other banqueters that the attorney-general's recent ruling that all ships entering American waters must be "dry" was the greatest blow that could have happened to the American merchant marine.

"I can prove," said Lasker, who spoke before the Audit Bureau of Circulation and its guests, "that Mr. Daugherty is the greatest lawbreaker of all times. Moses only made the Red Sea dry."

Lasker said that while he personally was not for the saloon, he spoke neither as a wet nor as a dry, but from the standpoint of the Shipping Board.

"I have seen in the press," said Lasker, "statements that he made his decision to conform to political expediency to aid the merchant marine bill. I never knew what the decision was until the president announced it."

"As to the attorney, who is such a good politician, if he felt he was helping American ships, he did it without advising with me. I want foreign ships to come in, as is their right, wet. Forty per cent of the passengers are foreigners and will not subscribe to our views."

"When we are in international business we only decide ourselves to think that America rules the world. The principal profit of ships coming to American shores is the emigrant traffic."

"We cannot compete," he said, "with foreign ships that can leave our shores dry and take on liquor at Halifax."

LIVEN POISON IVY IN GARDEN OF INDUSTRY.

The shipping board chairman said he entered the government service hoping to show that government ownership was possible, but added:

"Government ownership is the poison ivy in the garden of industry. Policy dictated by expediency of votes, with losses paid by the government and to responsibility, is a blight on the faith of the people. It is hypocrisy in government. I plead with you to help get America out of this morass. America owns 1500 steel ships that cost billions. They are operated by the government, and private ownership is withering under it. Under the ship subsidy bill we can end a loss of $50,000,000 a year in thirty months."

HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER IN STATE BIGGEST IN WORLD

Facility of Supplying Current to Farming Districts Told By Utilities Chief.

The development of hydro-electric power in California has expanded to members of the Optimist Club at their luncheon at the Hotel Oakland yesterday by W. B. Creed, president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

"This state, with its vast resources for the development of hydro-electric power, produces 3,200,000 kilowatt hours of power annually, or 21 per cent more than the state of New York," said Creed. "In other words, California produces more hydro-electric power than any other state, and is the largest producer in the world. New York ranks second."

"Of the 3,200,000 kilowatt hours of current produced in the United States annually, 14,000,000, 600 of this amount is produced by water-power and at this amount 3,200,000 is produced in the state of California."

The speaker pointed out that one of the most remarkable features of the development of hydro-electric power in California is the facility with which it is brought to the farming districts for the operation of modern agricultural machinery.

"In no other part of the United States," Creed said, "are the big farming districts within reach of electric power. In California, where steam-produced electricity must be relied upon. As the result of this development of hydro-electric power, California farms are able to get their power at a cost which makes it practical to operate their labor-saving machinery with electricity."

According to the speaker, more than $1,000,000,000 is invested in the hydro-electric industry in California and 30 per cent of this amount is California money. The Pacific Gas and Electric Company, he said, has more than 24,000 stockholders in the state and the Southern California Edison Company more than 40,000.

SOCIETY

Clubwomen Will Open Big Headquarters

By EDNA B. KINARD.

January 8, 1923, will be an important date in the history of the federated clubwomen. In Washington, D. C., at that time will be formally opened the handsome residence which has been taken over and remodeled as the headquarters of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. A brilliant reception will mark the occasion. On the following day will be opened the winter meeting of the board of directors. They will remain in session until January 11. Thus will be brought to a close the important housewarming.

The general headquarters are being paid for by gifts from state federations and individual clubwomen. California has appropriated $1000 to the purchase fund, with several of her leaders making substantial contributions. The fine old residence, dedicated to its new field of usefulness is not intended for a few women of the nation, but for every clubwoman in the country who may be visiting in Washington, and for those who come from other lands.

Extension of the general club movement is witnessed in the opening of a Federation Tea House at 1734 N. street, N. W. Washington, D. C., where high and low tea, as well as dinners are featured daily. The social venture is the outgrowth of the desire to bring the General Federation into closer contact with the many earnest thinking men and women who may be permanent or transient residents in Washington, according to the leaders. A charming garden lends itself to the project in warm weather.

Thieves looted a cloak room in the Scottish Rite cathedral while the Order of De Molay, a junior Masonic society, was holding an opening meeting and entertainment. The theft was not discovered until after midnight when fourteen young men went into the cloak room to get their hats and overcoats. The thieves took three caps, five overcoats, five hats and one muffler.

The youths went to the city hall in a group and reported the thefts. It is the theory of the police that the thieves used an automobile to carry the loot a way.

The names of the owner of the property which was stolen follow:

HOW Jack London was mothered by a woman who fostered his budding genius, is told by Rose Glavinovich in the Sunday TRIBUNE Magazine. The woman who aided and encouraged him in those first trying days of authorship was Mrs. Edward P. Payne. She is credited with having discovered London as a boy, and she is said to be in a large measure responsible for the fact that London entered upon the literary career which has given the world so many peerless adventure yarns. According to Mrs. Payne, the first story which London had accepted was "The Man on the Trail." It was published in Overland Monthly in 1899.

The discovery of gold on the western continent is the theme of an article in The TRIBUNE Sunday Magazine. The article is by Grace Mitchell and deals with the mystery of the "Golden Stairs of Peru."

"Thirty Years of Climbing" is the title of a mountain climbing article by Charles Warner in the TRIBUNE Sunday Magazine. Warner, who is a member of The TRIBUNE staff, is a mountaineer, woodsman and song leader and member of several hiking clubs.

Husband Hunters are discussed by Geraldine in the Sunday TRIBUNE Magazine. Jerry agrees with Shaw, declaring that the woman is not the hunted victim, but is nearly always the hunter, herself. Jerry declares that it is the women that do the courting.

STOP POLICING, TAKE CLUB AWAY, URGES BARROWS

University of California Head Says It's Time U. S. Quit World Repair Work.

It is time the United States quit doing repair work for the world and took a more active part in taking the clubs away from the nations that made repair work necessary, according to David P. Barrows, president of the University of California, who addressed the Oakland chapter of the Association of the Army of the United States at the Key Route Inn last night. Dr. Barrows spoke on the Eastern situation.

"In other words," the speaker said, "the United States should help police the world instead of doing relief work that would not be necessary if police work was done properly in the first place."

The Turkish situation was charged to a series of blunders on the part of the French and British for hating the Greeks when they had the Turks well in hand. Barrows declared that the present conditions in the Near East are due to the "unskilled" policy of the United States in not making a display of naval strength to Turkey.

"The Turks are much easier to handle as a defeated nation than as a victorious one," he said. "As the situation rests at present, they form a menace to the peace of Europe, if not to the world."

A change in the government of England is in progress. It may result in the refusal of that nation to do the major portion of the world's police work, and in that event, the United States must make up her mind to take over some of the responsibility.

The meeting was largely attended, officers of both the active and reserve branches attending.

DOLL BABES GOOD ENOUGH FOR HIM, SAYS FAKE MAMA

Mrs. Hazel McNally, Freed of Murder Charge, Tells How She Hoaxed Public.

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 21.—Mrs. Hazel McNally, who was charged by her husband with the murder of her twin babies, is today a free woman.

No evidence to prove she killed the babies, or in fact that the babies ever were born, was produced at the hearing, Judge Harry Cleveland declared late yesterday in dismissing the case.

The twins, as far as the law is concerned, remain just what the mother said they were—excellent stuffed dummies.

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service)

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 21.—Mrs. Hazel McNally, acquitted of the charge of murdering her twin babies, today told the "true story of the great doll hoax."

"You see, Mr. McNally was jealous of the children," she said. "She had remarried, borne two darling little boys and McNally wanted babies to match hers."

Then she told how they bought dolls, to palm them off as babies until they could adopt a boy and Cleveland declared late yesterday in dismissing the case.

The heads cost $2 each, she said. Then she bought a cut glass bowl, so they could use the excelsior in which it was packed to stuff the bodies of the dolls.

DECIDED ON TWINS.

"We concluded to have twins," she said, "because I thought they would be underweight, would grow more plump, for twins are not usually very large."

About the eighth of December everything was ready. McNally went to work. Later I called and told the superintendent to send Mr. McNally home at once.

"Our hoax was all ready. My babies were tiny and I could not possibly let anyone see them. The thing about it was that I had to stay in bed." As Mrs. Griffiths, the nurse, testified on the witness stand: "She could help herself pretty good."

She then told of unsuccessful efforts to locate twins they could adopt, how the doll became a bother because they lived in a neighborhood where they were a lot of "old married women who insisted on advising me as to the care of my children to make them grow."

Further, McNally held this thing over my head, she said. "Every time I threatened to leave, he'd say: 'Now you'd better be careful, for if you leave me, I don't forget that you haven't babies, but dolls.'"

Imagination was what the "doll mother" characterized the noises people heard, and the "stuffed witness" reported she saw coming from the mouth of one of the babies.

$30,000 ESTATE AGAIN IN COURT

Another action has been started in connection with the $30,000 estate of William A. Pryal, which during the past four years has been marked with charges of fraud and incompetency, brought against the widow, Mrs. Wladia F. Pryal, now Mrs. Boardman.

The charges have been preferred by Charles L. Pryal, a brother, who also directed attacks against several judges of the probate and superior court because of their jurisdiction in the case. Most of the litigation has been caused by Charles L. Pryal in repudiating his consent to distribution of the estate about two years ago. In each instance he has been defeated.

The present suit is brought by Alma M. Myers, attorney of San Francisco, who states the claim has been assigned to her. The widow, as administratrix of the estate and the United States Fidelity and

Furniture Men's Leaders Re-elected at Meeting

President H. A. Saxe and the other officers of the Retail Furniture Association of California were re-elected by large majorities at the morning session today of the annual convention being held in the Hotel Oakland.

Complete returns showed that President Saxe, the four vice-presidents and the secretary-treasurer were again placed in office. The re-elected officers are as follows:

President, H. A. Saxe, San Francisco, re-elected.

First vice president, A. H. Vought, Los Angeles, re-elected.

Second vice president, W. H. Stevenson, San Francisco, re-elected.

Third vice president, Sig. Wornat, Fresno, re-elected.

Fourth vice president, George E. Catts, Stockton, re-elected.

Secretary and treasurer, I. Friedman, San Francisco, re-elected.

ELECT NEW DIRECTORS.

There will probably be a number of new directors chosen, it was pointed out, and spirited contests were forecast for these positions.

The following members of the association's board of directors were re-elected for another term: C. H. Barker, Los Angeles; C. F. Thompson, Oakland; G. A. Lenoir, San Francisco; Gustav Lachman, San Francisco; William H. Young, Long Beach; Katherine Fredericks, Los Angeles; J. O. Smith, Los Angeles, and M. M. Sugarman, Los Angeles.

L. R. Beckel, of Oakland, was a new member chosen on the board.

The following members of the board of directors are chosen by their various units and were not effected by the election:

W. J. Calder, Oakland; W. B. Kelly, Santa Fe; H. F. Johnston, Modesto; Albert Graham, Anaheim; W. H. Adkisson, Taff; J. J. Boring, Visalia; George Montell, Santa Cruz; Fred Chanter, San Diego; John Donahue, Chico; George Locke Jr., Sacramento; Roger E. Connor, San Jose; Sam T. Eulen, Long Beach, and Charles Frazier, Sacramento.

L. F. Brenner of Sacramento was not re-elected as a member of the board, but as a result of an amendment to the organization's by-laws, whereby all past presidents are automatically made board members, retains his place with the directors.

Just before the convention adjourned the matter of selection of a site for the 1923 convention was placed in the hands of the board of directors and will be decided at a future date. This action was taken after none of the delegations presented bids for the next meeting.

The last day's session of the convention opened at 9:30 o'clock this morning, when the meeting was called to order by Saxe. It was attended by all of the 250 delegates who are here for the convention, and who were all anxious to have a hand in the election of officers, which was the principal business.

The convention, by unanimous vote, also adopted several resolutions extending thanks and appreciation to those responsible for the success of Furniture Style Week, recently held in the bay district, and to the newspapers and other publications for the publicity given to Style Week and to this convention.

There was also a resolution passed condemning the resolution of admitting the general public to furniture exhibits by jobbers and manufacturers. The position was taken that these exhibits were intended for retail dealers exclusively.

GIVEN VOTE OF THANKS.

REV. SLAUGHTER GIVEN PAROLE AFTER 7 YEARS

Chico Minister Leaves San Quentin to Rejoin Wife at Home on Ranch.

SAN QUENTIN PENITENTIARY, Oct. 21.—Gates of San Quentin opened today for the Rev. Madison Slaughter of Chico.

Shortly before 8 a. m. the minister, who was serving fifteen years for an alleged statutory offense against Gertrude Lamson of Chico, left the prison after serving approximately seven years of his sentence. He was on parole, the terms of his parole remaining in effect for three years after today.

Rev. Slaughter was greeted at the prison gates by a group of old friends.

It was understood that he would hurry to Porterville, Cal., where his wife is living, and where it was said former parishioners at Chico had financed for him the purchase of a small ranch on which he intends to reside.

Rev. Slaughter said he would not attempt to take up the ministry again, but after his three years of parole will take the platform to tell of his prison experience.

BROLASKI'S FATE HANGS ON KNIFE USED BY SURGEON

"Bootleg King" to Be Operated On at Tacoma For Cancer.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 21.—Fate will decide whether Harry Brolaski, McNell Island prisoner, who is in the Tacoma General hospital, awaiting a serious operation, will go back to serve the remainder of his two-year sentence or will return to his home in San Francisco.

If Brolaski returns to prison, it will mean that the operation has been successful, but if he returns to California it will be as a dead man to be buried in his home town. Brolaski is the San Francisco "bootlegger king" brought to McNell Island April 26 of this year. On his arrival, the prison surgeon found he was suffering from cancer. Three days later Brolaski suffered an attack which convinced Dr. C. P. Jento that the prisoner must have special treatment.

From that time on until now "cancer" walls have not a prison made for Harry Brolaski. Three times a week he has been allowed to come to Tacoma for treatment, unattended, but merely on his word to Warden Archer that he would return to the prison.

Permission for these trips was obtained from Attorney General Daugherty, it is said. Later it was decided that Brolaski must be removed to the hospital for an operation. Permission for this move was also granted.

Although Brolaski is unguarded by prison authorities, he has one constant watcher at his bedside, Mrs. Mary Belle Brolaski, his mother. Mrs. Brolaski came to Tacoma some weeks ago when it was decided that her son's condition was such that he needed an operation.

Physicians said that he did not have one chance to live if he was not operated on, and even then one chance in one hundred.

Tomorrow morning Brolaski goes to the operating room, but he refuses to discuss the matter. His mother also will say nothing of the impending danger, but she is torn between two griefs. If the operation is not successful it will fall upon her to take his body back to California. If it is, she must see her son go back to McNell Island prison for two more years.

Less Than Week Remains To Enter Photo Contest

Less than a week now remains in which to send in your entry in The TRIBUNE's big Eastbay Photo contest.

That means that almost before you know it, your chance to win one of the four valuable prizes listed in the next column—the $50 cash offered by The TRIBUNE and the three cameras offered by the Bowman Drug Company—will be gone.

During the few days in which that chance will yet remain open, it forms one of the easiest ways of winning a prize that could well be imagined. All that is necessary in order to compete is to pick out the most interesting scene you know of in the Eastbay district, and point a camera at it. The ones that win will not necessarily have worked any harder than the rest—they will simply have selected what, in the eyes of the judges of the contest, were more interesting subjects.

Because such a little effort may bring such big results if performed within the next few days, it's worth while not to let the time slip by without having had at least one try—you can take as many as you like—at the big contest.

Here are the conditions to be observed by each contestant:

All photos submitted must be of Eastbay scenes, incidents or persons. Contestants in order to be eligible must live in the Eastbay. The contest closes October 27. Contestants will send one contact print AND THE NEGATIVE. The latter is necessary that we may make our own newspaper enlargement. Negatives will be returned if stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent.

Address all entries to Photo Editor, Oakland TRIBUNE.

Description of photo must accompany entries. If a portrait, the name of the subject must be given.

WOMAN CHARGES SHIPMASTER WITH ATTACK AT SEA

Captain of Coastwise Steamer Named in Probe By Federal Officers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Captain W. A. Hall, master of the Admiral Line steamer Senator, now en route to Portland, today was made the subject of a Federal investigation into a charge of felonious assault on the high seas brought by Mrs. Melba Ruth Rodgers, wife of Donald Rodgers, former employment agent of this city.

Mrs. Rodgers alleges in a complaint being inquired into by the Department of Justice, that she was en route to Marshfield, Ore., to visit her mother when the alleged attack occurred. She said she had been seasick and that Captain Hall was very solicitous. He invited her on deck, insisted that she enter his cabin and then attacked her, she charges. Later when she was back in town, she says, he telephoned her and insisted that she meet him at the dock.

The original assault occurred, she charges, when he was master of the Admiral Rodman, but he later was transferred to the Senator and her second meeting with him occurred on that vessel when, she alleges, the attack was repeated.

Finally Mrs. Rodgers confessed to her husband and with him and an attorney laid the matter before the Department of Justice.

COURT BALKS AT PROBATION FOR YOUTHFUL THUG

Gerald Merritt of Santa Clara, Confessed Bandit, Awaits Sentence.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 21.—Gerald Merritt, son of James A. Merritt of Santa Clara, wealthy head of the Merritt concrete pipe company, is today awaiting the passing of sentence upon him for an extraordinary series of hold-ups, robberies, automobile thefts and misdoings of all kinds which culminated in his compelling a young woman he held up to disrobe by the roadside.

Merritt, who is 18, was denied probation late yesterday after a sensational trial before Judge J. R. Welch. He admitted theft after theft and hold-up after hold-up, even telling, under the verbal probing of the judge, how he and a companion forced a young girl to strip, at the point of a gun, after she and her escort had been robbed. He claimed, however, that the girl was otherwise unimpeached.

Merritt started out with his voice rather strong. He faced Judge Welch, and looked him in the eyes as he began to recite the details of his crimes. His voice dropped as he went along, and the words he uttered could be heard only at a short distance, as he recited the catalogue of his wrongdoings.

Judge Welch was merciless in his demand for the facts, and wormed from him the story of several auto thefts, the theft of an auto clock, and the story of several holdups in lonely spots in the country roads. Merritt told of going to remote spots on little traveled roads while driving about in stolen automobiles. Then, he admitted, at a pistol point, he and his companion forced the couples that they found sitting in autos by the roadside to dismount while they were searched by Merritt and his companion, Claude Fancher.

Merritt's attorney, W. E. Foley, had summoned a most extraordinary array of witnesses for the young man. The list started off with Merritt's father, who was followed by John B. Shea, local business man and member of the juvenile court committee. Rev. Wm. Keeney, Town of the First Baptist

FAKE WARRANT JOKE HOLDS UP TRAIN AN HOUR

Railroad Officials Are Seeking Jovial Automobile Party.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 21.—Railroad officials are today seeking a jovial set of automobile men who were responsible for holding up a Los Angeles train for an hour here.

Upon the arrival of the train here Deputies Earl Hamilton and Harry Martin climbed aboard with a warrant for the arrest of Thomas Johnson, wealthy Hollywood business man on a charge of transporting liquor.

Johnson was not robbed for the street and proceeded to dress, taking almost an hour to perform this function. When he alighted he was escorted to the waiting patrol and taken to the county jail and locked up. He refused to put up any bail, taking the situation calmly and with a coolness that mystified the officers.

U. C. Men Study Local Orchards

HAYWARD, Oct. 21.—In recognition of the advanced stages of the district in horticultural disease control seventy-five students of the agricultural college of the University of California, led by heads of horticultural departments, inspected the methods adopted by orchardists here yesterday. Preventive measures against brown rot and the peach root borer attracted particular attention of the group.

Control of the brown rot is being sought here by two methods, dusting and spraying. Both systems are practiced in the fall of the year and in the spring. Control of the peach root borer is being sought by means of gaseous powder, paradiichlorobenzene. The latter is said to be a practically certain means of controlling the borer.

The students, who arrived here in a caravan of twenty-one automobiles, were accompanied by the following department heads of the college of agriculture: B. O. Essig, entomologist; W. T. Horne, plant pathologist; W. B. Hornes, parasitologist; and E. L. Overholser, pomologist. The orchards of A. J. Garin, Harry Owen, L. M. Turner and E. C. Gorrie were studied. Russell T. Robinson, county agricultural agent, led the investigation.

Woman Injured in Automobile Crash

SAN JOSE, Oct. 21.—A woman is injured and two autos and a street car are smashed today as a result of a triple collision late yesterday.

Mrs. J. B. Dunham, 177 Devine street, is said by witnesses to have cut the corner turning into Delmas avenue, colliding with an auto driven by Eugene Wilcox, local auto license dealer. The accident occurred on the street car tracks and the approaching street car, driven by Motorman Jack Metts, 481 S. Tenth street, could not be stopped before it struck Mrs. Dunham's car. She suffered bad bruises to her legs and was treated by Dr. Paul Sanford at the city emergency hospital.

Battery C is planning to acquire a rifle range for use in machine gun, automatic rifle and pistol practice. The range under consideration is on the Nevin ranch on the Dublin road and is the same one used by Company I. Competition with the Livermore Rifle Club is expected to result.

HEMP PRODUCTS PLANT PROPOSED FOR LIVERMORE

LIVERMORE, Oct. 21.—A meeting of the business men of Livermore was called by the Chamber of Commerce at the P. G. & E. office recently for the purpose of meeting and listening to Karl Wessel of St. Paul, Minn., who came for the purpose of creating local interest in the erection of a factory here for the handling of linen fibre and its by-products.

Wessel is a builder of machinery for the manufacture of coarse textiles and building slab structure. Hemp is the substance used in the manufacture of these products, and it was for the purpose of interesting the farmers here in taking up this new industry, as well as interest the business men of the town in the erection of a factory that Wessel came here. He explained the matter in a thorough manner and at the conclusion stated that if the town here would provide a suitable site for the factory and the farmers would contract to raise at least 300 or more acres of hemp, then he would see to the erection of the plant. He stated that the average size factory usually installed would require about 2000 acres of hemp acres could be guaranteed for the first year he was satisfied that the farmers would be so well pleased with their venture that in the next year the factory would have no trouble getting contracts for increased acreage among the farmers. This, he said, had been the case in other localities where it had been tried out.

Owing to the fact that the farmers are the ones who must be first interested in the project, as they are the ones who must necessarily furnish the product, it is planned to hold another meeting at which time every farmer in the valley will be asked to be present to hear what Wessel has to say upon the subject. If the project proves feasible and the farmers believe that it will be a profitable crop for them to raise there is no doubt but what the proposition will be carried through.

CURTAIN CALLS

By WOOD SOANES

IN his desire to achieve the unusual, Alexander Pantages has corralled a new act, something entirely out of the ordinary, and it remains to be seen just what sort of reception it will be accorded tomorrow at the local theater.

Heretofore considerable space has been given to the newest wrinkle of the scientists, the transmuting of animal glands, as a substitute for the mythical fountain of youth made famous by Ponce de Leon.

Now comes Pantages with the announcement that he has secured for his circuit the original subject of this gland transmuting operation and his son. The subject is said to be the president of the telephone company in Millford, Kan.

Twenty Seasons Ago Today

"In Idaho," a dramatization of one of the Bret Harte stories, was billed for presentation at the Dewey theater twenty seasons ago tonight with the famous Stevens stock company in the roles. At the Macdonough theater the Young Men's Institute were giving a benefit performance for Providence hospital. Alfred Roncoreri played the trombone and "Spring to Me Only With Rhine Eyes" was on the program twice.

Harry Cornell, manager of the Pantages, received the announcement that the new act would make its debut in Oakland yesterday in a lengthy wire from the main office explaining the scientific entertainment of the offering consists of motion pictures explained by the Kansas man. As a sensational act this new one ought to be "some."

Ben T. Dillon has returned to "the farm," which is but another way of saying that the veteran showman is temporarily deserting the stage again. This time he avers, affirms and asserts that the subject, however, he remains discreetly silent.

As "Mike Dooley" he will be remembered by local showgoers as the senior member of the firm of Dillon and King, famous for their vaudeville act, who opened on Sunday afternoon two weeks ago and handed in his notice after the first performance. It is bruited about the rumor that the comedian objected to the class of entertainment offered at the theater. On this subject, however, he remains discreetly silent.

Exits and Entrances

There has been a shift among the dramatic critics in New York. Alexander Woolcott has moved from the Times to the Herald; succeeding Lawrence E. Sawyer. John Corbin, formerly assistant to Woolcott, has taken the chair on the Times.

Max Dill is now in New York, conferring with Aaron Hoffman on the new Kolb and Dill play. It is to be titled "Now and Then," and will be produced about November 24, according to plans.

"Merton of the Movies," the dramatization of the Harry Leon Wilson book satirizing the movies, was presented in Brooklyn last week by George Tabor and went over in great shape. Of Lucille Webster, who is playing the casting director, one reviewer has to say: "Of the numerous roles several stand out. As an instance, in the casting director of Lucille Webster, one can actually see Rose Mullaney working out on the Metro lot. Miss Webster's performance is a corker."

Another three-character play has made its debut. It is "To Love," on the road to New York with Norman Trevor, Grace George and Robert Warwick. It is another adaptation of a French play.

Tomorrow night is Industrial Night at the Orpheum, part of the third of a century anniversary celebration, and J. T. McLaughlin, former four-minute man, will talk Monday night is Oakland night, and Mayor John L. Davis is the speaker.

Now that Arthur Hopkins has launched Ethel Barrymore's play for the season interest is centered in the forthcoming presentation of John Barrymore in "Hamlet." Eugene O'Neill is now going over a script of "Hamlet," and Charles Kennedy, who played with Genevieve Tobin and Lionel Barrymore, has been engaged for Polonius.

Sunday was the sixty-fifth birthday of E. F. Albee, president and head of the E. F. Keith vaudeville organization and of "My Dear Mr. Albee" fame.

A new team has appeared on the vaudeville horizon. Gordon Dooley, brother of Ray, Johnny and the late William, and Martha Morton of the family of Sam, Kitty, Paul, Clara and Joe, were married recently and are celebrating their honeymoon on the Orpheum. Their act is called "Famous Babies From Famous Families."

LAD SCARED FOR TRUANCY FOUND DEAD UNDER BED

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Raymond Nowicki, 9, was found dead under his mother's bed. His brother said he feared truancy officers and hid there when a woman canvasser knocked at the front door. Raymond was not well and did not go to school. According to his mother, his playmates told him the truancy officer would get him and put him "in a big dungeon."

Retired U. S. Officers Offer Defense Aid

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—A tender of its services toward providing an "adequate defense and a substantial military policy" for the nation was embodied in a resolution adopted by a meeting of the national executive council of the Retired Officers' Association. The association is composed of retired officers of the army, navy, marine corps, public health service and coast and geodetic survey.

Tokio May Obtain Separate Control

TOKYO, Oct. 21.—If the bill recently framed by the home department will be passed by the diet, Tokyo will become an independent municipality, separated from the Tokyo prefectural government. Thirty-four small villages at the edges of Tokyo would become part of the city. Its population would be increased by 500,000. The mayor would be elected by a general vote instead of being appointed by the members of the city assembly as is now done.

Superintendents of N. E. A. to Meet

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 21.—School superintendents and leading educators from all parts of the United States are expected here February 26 to March 1, for the 1923 convention of the National Education association. In addition to the general sessions of the convention, 115 separate daily meetings of committees and subsidiary organizations will be held. It is announced.

Pacific Scientists to Meet in Sydney

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 21.—The Australian National Research Council has approved the proposal to hold the Pan-Pacific Scientific Congress in Sydney and Melbourne next year following an appeal by A. Andrews, New South Wales government geologist. The $5000 appropriation by the commonwealth for the congress will be expended through the Institute of Science and Industry. An invitation to participate in the congress already has been sent to the National Research Council of the United States and has been accepted.

Methodist Schools Show Increase

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Increased enrollment this year over that of 1921 in the 40 colleges and universities reporting to the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church, shows that the post-war revival in college attendance is not temporary, that board declares. An increase of almost 5000 students in disclosed this year. Fall registration totaled 65,570, which is expected to be increased by several hundred before the end of the school year. Last year the total reached 61,200.

Mizrachi Zionists Will Hold Meeting

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 21.—More than 300 delegates from all sections of the United States are expected here to attend the national convention of the Mizrachi Zionist organization, which opens Friday, November 17, and continues five days. The Mizrachi, which is the orthodox wing of the world Zionist organization, includes as a constituent society the association of Orthodox Rabbis. Following the opening of the convention special services will be held Saturday in all orthodox synagogues of the city at which visiting rabbis will speak. A mass meeting is planned for Sunday night and a banquet for Monday.

REMEMBER THE SPANISH MAIN—This rare picture shows warship in the old Spanish Armada, that once struck terror to the rest of the world. Wireless equipment, smokestacks and armor plate are conspicuous for their absence.

HE'S A COLORATURA SCULPTUROSO—His name is Allen Clark and he is modeling the features of Galli-Curci, famous prima donna, at her home in the Catskills. The things Clark does with clay and marble are quite as remarkable as what the noted singer does with her golden throat. Clark, according to critics, has put everything into this lifelike bust except the Galli-Curci voice.—Copyright by Underwood.

SHE WAS HALF SISTER TO THE MUSE—This is Cosima Wagner, widow of the great German composer. She was the inspiration for some of the world's finest operas. She is reported dying in Germany. This photo was obtained in Germany after a vain search through collections all over the United States. It is believed to be the only photo of the subject in this country which is clear enough to print. She is 82 years old. —Copyright by Underwood.

A 48-INCH GLADSTONE—Meet David Gladstone of Newark, N. J., boy prodigy of New York University, where he is a Freshman in the College of Arts and Pure Science. He is only fifteen years old and stands four feet in his stockings. He has plenty of time to invent Gladstone bags and try his hand at statesmanship. —Keystone photo.

A HARD WINTER FOR THE BIRDS is ahead, as is evident at a glance at the trimmings on the hat in the lower of these two fashion pictures. These two photos indicate the trend of the season's fashions. Hats are to be small; a peculiarity not to be shared by the prices paid for them, it is understood. The biggest bills are not on the birds used in the trimming. —Keystone photo.

NO, THE TREE DIDN'T GROW THROUGH THE ROOF—The proprietor of this hostelry in Yosemite Village was a nature lover. He wanted more room but he preferred to sacrifice floor space rather than this fine tree. So he decided to "build to suit tenant."—Photo from Louis Allen, 2837 Regent street, Berkeley.

My Marriage Problems

Chick Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

"I know that you're a dear!" she said warmly, tapping my cheek, an old little cross of hers. "And, thanks be to Allah! I hear Dicky's car. The moon-gazers have returned, and you can get to bed."

What Dicky Said to Madge Near

In Mrs. Ticer's homely parlance, "I didn't need anybody to rock me to sleep" when I finally reached my room.

Dicky had returned from his trip with his sister in a big hurry. He is always exceedingly irritable when he's tired—and announced his intention of going straight to his bed.

Mrs. Harrison, however, who had lounged in a rocker all day, was as fresh as any daisy ever quoted and announced her intention of getting something to eat. In common courtesy I could not forsake her, and, besides, I guessed in what a clutter she would leave the kitchen, a proceeding which always infuriates Katie. My little maid's nerves would be "jumpy" enough the next morning without finding what she would characterize as "vun awful mess" in her always immaculate kitchen.

"WHAT IS THAT BELL?" My sister-in-law justified my fears. She cooked and ate an ample supper, musing on dish after dish. Then, calmly wishing me good-night, she went up to bed.

To her justly, I know she did not think that I meant to clear up the kitchen. But I was glad enough to be rid of her everlasting sweet smile not to wish her to help me, and I put things in the shape she had found them before I went to the room I was to share with Dicky.

I looked at Katie's window before I finally went to bed, but it was dark and I knew that she was either asleep or had purposely extinguished the light so I would not come to her.

Dicky was snoring audibly when I finally reached my room, a sound which usually effectually banishes sleep from me, but I had no time to think of that. I believe, before all consciousness had slipped from me, not to return until the sound of the tiny alarm clock I had slipped beneath my pillow and awaked me. I was startled up the clock, which was ringing, and I threw the little thing across the room, where it crashed against the wall, making a jagged hole in the pretty wallpaper we had put on so recently.

"MADGE GETS EVEN." "Perhaps that'll teach you not to be so brash with that cursed thing!" he growled, as he burrowed his head into the pillow again. "Of all the inconsiderate women in the world, you're the worst. Here I didn't get to sleep until midnight and you set an alarm clock at my ear for six in the morning. Well, thank goodness, you won't set the devilish alarm clock off again, and I'll sleep any other one you ever bring here again!"

I knew there was some justice in Dicky's viewpoint. He had put in a strenuous day and needed several hours more sleep. But my day and night had been much more stressful than his and I did not know when the day I was beginning so early would end.

But his wanton destruction of the clock and marring of the wallpaper made me furiously angry. Although I was able to keep my lips closed and made no report to his insulting little tirade, yet my wrath kept burning all the more dangerously for the repression. And as I dressed moodily and rapidly I found myself turning over in my mind wild childish schemes for getting even with him.

The bed in which we had slept was a low one and close to it—on Dicky's side—was a little table. Noting this, I carefully tiptoed to a closet, brought two or three thick quilts, and laid them on the rug. Then, first being sure that I needed nothing more from the room, and leaving the door ajar for a quick get-away, I advanced to the bed, and, with one mighty jerk, brought him sprawling from the bed to the floor. Then I bounded to the door and looked back, laughing at the ludicrous picture he made. His face black with anger, his arms and legs thrashing around trying to get free from the entangling bed clothing.

"That's to pay for the clock!" I called, gaily, "Hope you rest well."

I closed the door for fear the rest of the family would hear the picturesque language he sent after me. Then I went down the hall and knocked softly upon Lillian's door. She opened it promptly and I saw that she was fully dressed.

"On time, as usual," she smiled. "You're a good soldier, Madge."

This is a new Pirate—Aren't you glad he has joined the Pirate crew? "FRISCO TEXAS GEORGE," 317 Hanover Ave., Oakland. (9 years)

"The Sheriff and His Duties." In the historic town of Brownsville, a long the Rio Grande and the border of Mexico, lived a sheriff by name Cross-Eyed Jim, who was after a gang of bandits, whose leader would steal anything he could get his hands on, his name was Pancho Bill.

As they, who were the bandits, neared the border line, Pancho Bill spied a blonde girl riding horseback, by chance the sheriff's sweetheart. The Pancho Bill, the color of blonde, told his men to capture her and meet him at the cave, their hiding place, on saying this he went away. They grabbed the girl, rode across the border line, took her to the cave, where the leader was, and tied her up.

For mother reported to the sheriff, that she did not return from her ride.

Then the sheriff and his deputies went out to find her, and get her away from the terrible Pancho Bill, as the sheriff saw a cave, he entered, he heard Pancho Bill say, "We rob the First National Bank at midnight tonight." The sheriff turning he said to his men, "We must go back and save our citizens' money in the bank." The sheriff was brave and had a lot of courage to leave his sweetheart for his duty to his office, on returning to Brownsville, he thought quick and as the hour drew near, the sheriff and his deputies stationed themselves around the bank where they could see the results, as the clock struck twelve, the bandits of course were on schedule time and had a battle with the sheriff, he being wounded could not direct his men, Pancho Bill made away with the money to his cave. After an hour or so ten of his men returned, the rest were killed or captured.

The next day the sheriff and his deputies started toward the cave, and opened fire on the bandits, the sheriff getting wounded again did his best, soon they were all gone some being killed, the rest ran away. The sheriff entering untied the girl and put the money in a sack, and set it on a horse with the girl and went to Brownsville, he living the money to the bank. The mother gave her daughter's hand in marriage and the citizens gave him a cottage for his bravery and courage.

Title Arouses Interest

Much speculation has been aroused by the title of Marshall Neilan's latest production, "The Strangers' Banquet," based on Donn Byrne's novel of the same name. The significance of the name is found in these words of the Preacher, the son of David, King in Jerusalem:

"There is an evil which I have seen under the sun, and it is common among men. A man to whom God hath given riches, wealth and honor, so that he wanteth nothing for his soul of all that he desireth. But a stranger eateth it: this is vanity and it is an evil disease."

This latest Neilan production, made in association with Goldwyn, deals with the life of Shane Butler Keogh, mighty ship-builder, who had accumulated great wealth by his own efforts.

Sweet Stranger

by Bertha Ruck

"Oh, do go on," I murmured.

"Er—Miss Vaughan. You saw the girl who came to meet me on the wharf? Well, now, as soon as I knew all that was a mistake—we'd lunch in Halifax together, and I just told her it was a washout. She was my cousin, you see. It was her father, my Uncle Gabriel, who owned the business I'd a share in, and she, Madge, was his only girl, only child. We were kids together. She was in my class at school, went on the young Canadian. Later I always took her around parties and the movies (always crazy on those she was)—and upon my word, I hardly remember the time when it wasn't taken for granted that we should marry each other one fine day, don't you know?"

Quietly Miss Crane commented, "One of these affairs that have grown up so that they'd no beginning. Therefore they've no middle or progress. One's only too thankful if they're any sort of end." He said, "I didn't give her an engagement ring until five years ago, when I was going off with the draft. Then my married sister said I'd better. So I asked her, Madge, to wear one while I was away. She said she'd love to. We chose the ring together, day before I sailed. She was rather keen on it. You know girls—some girls do get awfully keen on the kind of stones they get and how big they are, and if they go all around, or if they're set for and after whether they're a first-class color. I think it was rather one of her little fads, jewelry."

"Ah, yes," said Claudia Crane, meditatively. "One of those." "And," he said, "she liked having the engagement settled up before I went, so that she could say she had a fiancée at the front. And, well, neither of us was much of a letter-writer."

"Do not say that, Mr. Morris," protested Miss Crane, demurely. "When I remember the accurate bulletins that I received from you almost daily in Chicago."

He said, "Oh, to keep in touch. But letters to Madge—well, I never really told her much about anything."

A pause as the coffee came. Then "Breaking it to her as soon as I landed that the whole business was Napoo. Good Lord! The bit of luck I got in the way she took it. She cried. Cried with me for joy and delight, poor kid, the very moment I got out of my mouth. Look here, Madge, I'm mad sorry, but— and all the rest of it. She said it was more than she could ever have hoped for. For the last four years she hadn't wanted to marry me any more than I wanted to marry her. Then, there wasn't even another man. Except that there always were crowds of other men buzzing about, and I never could hear of it, even she hadn't been an engaged girl. However, this made her chance with the old man. Being so miserable over my defection, I'd caught her, and she was a very pretty kid—the sort people turn to look at. ## Uncle Wiggly Stories

UNCLE WIGGLY'S OIL CAN.

THERE was a rumbling, puffing sound at the back door of Uncle Wiggly's hollow stump bungalow. Nurse Jane Fuzzzy Wuzzy, the muckrat lady housekeeper, ran to the door, her paws all covered with flour, for she was baking a cake.

When Nurse Jane looked out into the yard she saw Uncle Wiggly just bringing his automobile to a stop. It was the auto which had made the puffing, rumbling sound.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggly!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "I thought that noise was a thunder storm coming, and I hurried to take in the newly washed clothes. I never knew your car to make so much noise before. What's the matter?"

"There is something wrong," answered the bumpy gentleman, as he hopped off the seat and, after looking at each wheel, began to peer under the machine. "I shall stop at the garage and see what the trouble is," said the bumpy.

"Yes, do," advised Nurse Jane. "And don't go too far in your car. Perhaps you might become stalled and would have to hop home."

"It wouldn't be the first time I've hopped!" laughed the bumpy. "But I'll be careful all the same. Though I do wonder what's the matter with my car."

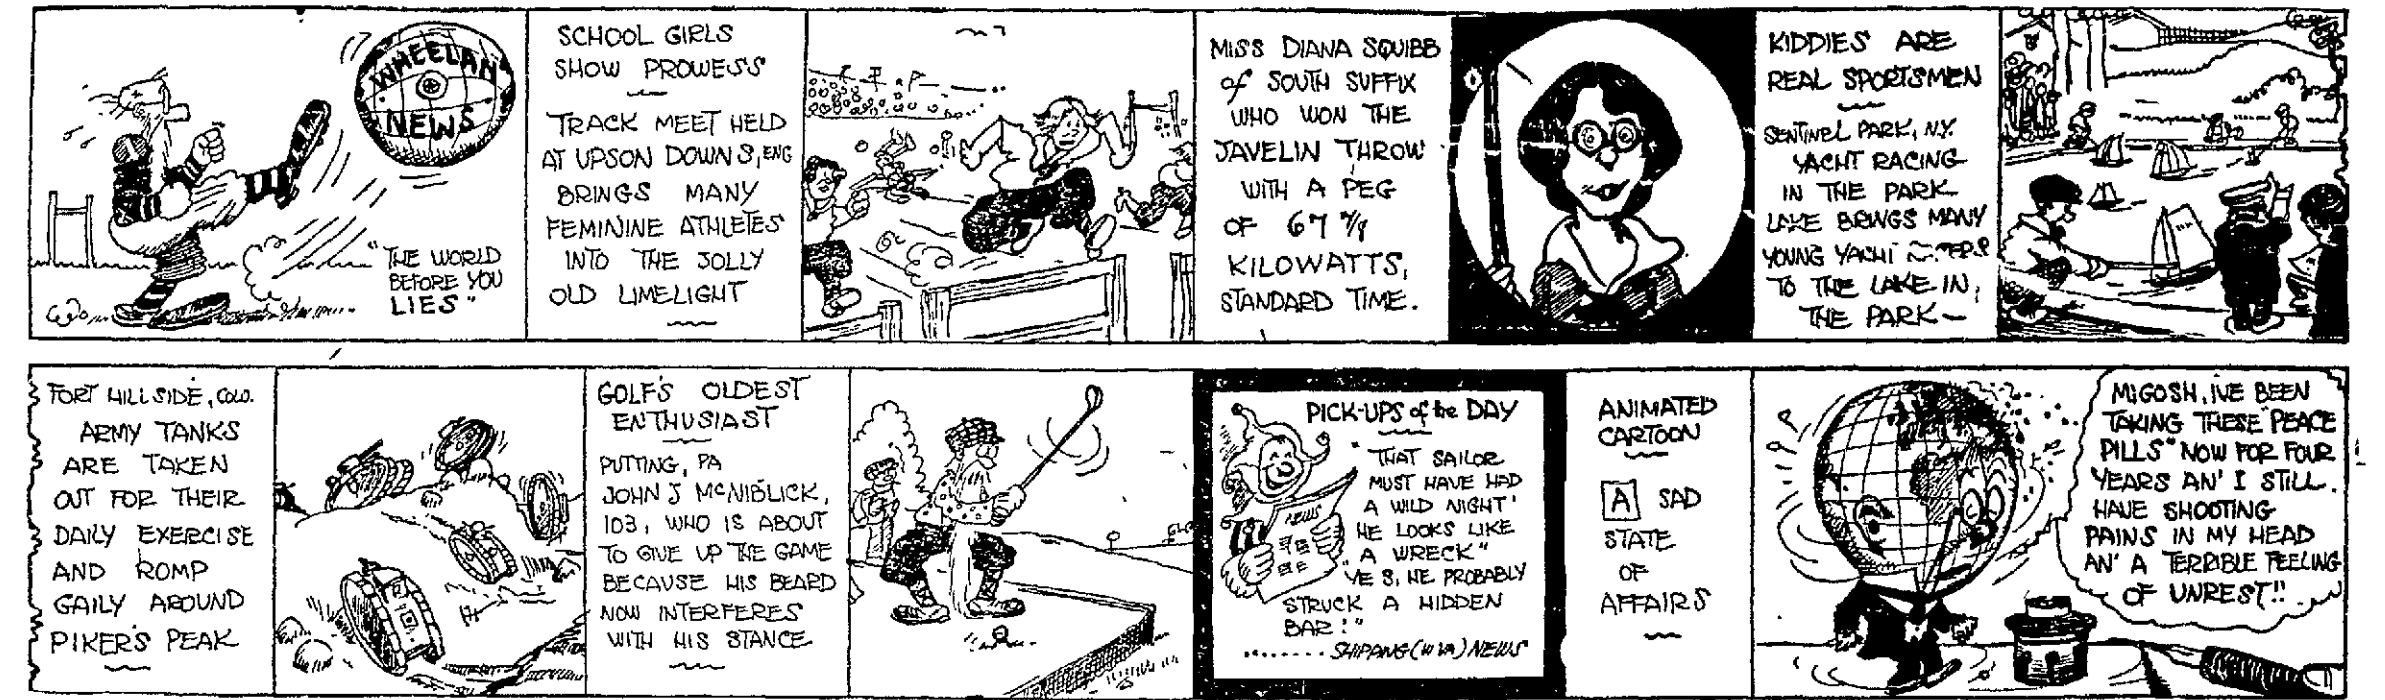

However, Uncle Wiggly could see nothing wrong, and he thought it would be all right to ride out a bit and look for an adventure.

"Is there anything I may have the pleasure of bringing you when I return, Nurse Jane?" asked the bumpy with a low and polite bow of his paws. "Oh, excuse me—I mean his tall black nose—oh, I guess I'll never see that straight. I mean his

Now while he was in the garage, talking to the monkey gentleman, along came the Bob Cat. Seeing Uncle Wiggly's car standing in the road, and the bumpy not in sight, the Bob Cat said: "Ah, ha! This is my chance! I'll just crawl under the car, hang on by my claws and when Uncle Wiggly gets to a lonely place in the road, I'll catch hold of the wheels, stop the machine and when he gets out to see what the trouble is, I'll nibble his ears!"

So the Bob Cat hid underneath the auto, and when Uncle Wiggly started off again, to listen for more trouble noises, the Bob Cat rode with the bumpy, though Uncle Wiggly didn't know it. All of a sudden, as Uncle Wiggly was driving his car up a hill toward the woods, there sounded a funny squeaking noise under it.

"Ho hum!" exclaimed the bumpy. "That is a new noise—that squeak. The garage monkey told me to listen for any new noises, and this squeak is certainly new. But I know what to do when a car squeaks—I must oil it. Oh! It will take squeaks out of a car, though it may not take out bumps and knocks. As soon as I get to the top of the hill, in the cool woods, I'll get out my oil can and oil the places that squeak."

Uncle Wiggly's car squeaked more and more, and the reason was that the sharp claws of the Bob Cat were dragging on the wheels. The Bob Cat, under the auto, was trying to hold the wheels to keep them from moving, but they went so fast he couldn't get a good hold, and his claws just squeaked and squeaked.

"Here we are! Now to oil the 'canary birds,'" laughed Uncle Wiggly, for that is what auto squeaks are called. The bumpy took out his oil can, and before the Bob Cat could crawl out from beneath the car Uncle Wiggly squirted a lot of greasy oil around all the wheels.

"There, I guess that ought to take out the squeaks!" said the bumpy.

"The oil took out more than the squeaks. It brought out the Bob Cat, too, for his eyes were filled with oil.

"Oh, wow!" howled the Bob Cat, as he staggered off into the woods, wiping the oil from his eyes on his paws. "Oh, who would ever think of this!" And then, because his paws were oily, he fell down and bumped his nose.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggly. "At least I've gotten rid of a big bunch of trouble!" And when he started his car again all the bumps and knocks disappeared, as well as the squeaks. All they needed, as did the Bob Cat, was oil.

And if the fountain pen doesn't try to play in the middle of the white red spread and make it look like a minstrel show, I'll look you next about Uncle Wiggly's car. p. five (Copyright, 1922.)

Lutherans in Session Take Up Problems

Sessions Now On at Buffalo Expected to Adjourn October 27.

Many problems of world-wide importance in religious circles are being presented at the United Lutheran Church Biennial Convention which is in session in Buffalo, N. Y. The sessions started on October 17 and will be continued until October 27. The organization of this body is such that final authority on disputed matters is vested in the delegates to its conventions. During the time between conventions authority is relegated to the officers of the organization or the executive board.

Among the questions on which action is being taken are:

The exact stand of the United Lutheran church upon the matter of linking up with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, with whom they now enjoy "consultative relationship" with the World Conference on Faith and Order, and with the Universal Conference on Life and Work.

Whether their church shall enter into relationship with other denominations on the missionary societies of Great Britain, for the establishing of a great Christian university in South India.

SEEK FOREIGN ALLIANCE.

To sanction an arrangement which has been entered into for close inter-relationship of their organization with the Lutheran Church of Hungary and a similar proposed arrangement for the Lutheran Church of Czechoslovakia.

To elect delegates to represent the United Lutheran Church at the First Lutheran World Convention to be held next summer at Wittemberg, Germany, and to give instructions as to the manner in which they will vote upon the world problems which will arise for solution.

To vote upon the proposal to extend the work of foreign missions into China and into the sections of Mexico settled by German-Russian Lutherans, and to increase materially the work of church building in the Western provinces of Canada.

A vote will be taken upon authorizing another campaign for funds to be applied in Russia and Central Europe by the National Lutheran Council in cooperation with the American Relief Administration.

The church will be asked to adopt a more sympathetic attitude toward the home mission work among the Negroes.

MAY MOVE SEMINARY.

A decision must be reached upon granting permission to the synod of the Northwest to move its theological seminary from Fargo, N. D., to St. Paul, Minn.

Decision on the admittance of three merger district synods, one in Ohio, in Virginia and Tennessee, and in North Carolina. It is proposed that district synods be urged to appoint lay readers, that theological students be used as supplies during vacations, that usefulness be found for local missionary work and that colporteurs be appointed.

Rich Fool Subject of Discourse

Dr. John Snape Announces Text For Second in Sermon Series.

"The Rich Fool" is the topic to be discussed by Dr. John Snape, the pastor at the First Baptist Church tomorrow night in connection with his series on "The Fools of the Bible." At the morning hour he will preach on "How the Son of God Could Be Tempted." In speaking of the evening theme, Dr. Snape says, "It is not a sin to make money; it is a sin not to make money, if one can, that he may bless humanity with his beneficence. The rich fool of the Scripture parable was a fool for thinking that what he had was his own, for thinking that storing is saving, for thinking that increased barn capacity decreases care. He could have been rich in faith, in love, in charity, in philanthropy, in friends, but he preferred to be rich in bars. He was a fool."

Motion Pictures in the Church

The use of motion pictures in the church, as a part of its regular service, either on Sunday or during the week, is fully justified on account of the nature of the material which the minister has given to him in the very Bible itself. Probably there is no book in the world or in any collection of writings which contains so much dramatic material for stories and illustrations as the Bible. It is in the very largest sense a great collection of life stories of real people. Indeed, if we take out of the Old Testament the literary and prophetic art of it, we have left the most astonishing collection of biography, telling the story of man's sin, his virtue, his passions, his struggles to find God, his earthly ambitions, sorrows and joys. It is doubtful if any story has ever been written by human hand which contains more vivid material for illustration than that which is put into the minister's hand to use for preaching.

When Jesus was on earth he emphasized His teaching by telling stories. These stories, many of them, can be made vivid by pictorialization or in dramatic form and many of them have already been. If we go into the field of art, we find great galleries filled with the stories of the Bible, which impress again the same things that Jesus taught. It is not at all irrelevant or out of place to suppose that if Jesus were living today in our modern world, He would not hesitate to use a wonderful means which science has discovered to impress the same truths which He taught in story form in simple language when He was living. The use of motion pictures in the church, as a part of its regular service, either on Sunday or during the week, is fully justified on account of the nature of the material which the minister has given to him in the very Bible itself. Probably there is no book in the world or in any collection of writings which contains so much dramatic material for stories and illustrations as the Bible. It is in the very largest sense a great collection of life stories of real people. Indeed, if we take out of the Old Testament the literary and prophetic art of it, we have left the most astonishing collection of biography, telling the story of man's sin, his virtue, his passions, his struggles to find God, his earthly ambitions, sorrows and joys. It is doubtful if any story has ever been written by human hand which contains more vivid material for illustration than that which is put into the minister's hand to use for preaching.

When Jesus was on earth he emphasized His teaching by telling stories. These stories, many of them, can be made vivid by pictorialization or in dramatic form and many of them have already been. If we go into the field of art, we find great galleries filled with the stories of the Bible, which impress again the same things that Jesus taught. It is not at all irrelevant or out of place to suppose that if Jesus were living today in our modern world, He would not hesitate to use a wonderful means which science has discovered to impress the same truths which He taught in story form in simple language when He was living. Musical of Lutheran Church.

The intense love of Luther for music and his practical knowledge of the art, together with the innate musical nature of his followers and their reverent attitude toward religion, all combined to evolve a type of hymn tune which for dignity, breadth, and fundamental worth has remained unexcelled. Skilled musicians bustled themselves with arranging and composing melodies, and their efforts resulted in such a high standard of attainment, and such a corresponding elevation of public taste, that the Lutheran Church has never suffered from trashy or unworthy hymn music.—Concordia. ## Dr. Wendte To Occupy Old Pulpit

"Does Chance or Purpose Rule?" Will Be Text of Sermon.

Dr. Charles W. Wendte, who was minister of the First Unitarian church of Oakland from 1885 to 1895, will speak in his former pulpit tomorrow morning on the subject, "Does Chance or Purpose Rule the Universe?" Dr. and Mrs. Wendte have recently purchased a home in Claremont, and they are actively identifying themselves in the civic and social life of Oakland.

The series of talks by Rev. Clarence Reed, the pastor, on "What We Know About Jesus," will be continued tomorrow evening. Rev. Reed's subject at that time will be "The Birth Legends." He states that the manuscripts reveal the fact that Jesus, his mother Mary, Paul, the Gospel of Mark, the Fourth Gospel, Clement, Polycarp and Ignatius are silent in regard to the legend of the virgin birth, and that the first of the Christian Fathers to refer to it was Justin the Martyr and he spoke of it as a new myth.

A joint dinner of the Women's Alliance and the Laymen's League will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in Wendte Hall for the discussion of the constitutional amendments. There will be speeches by H. G. Tardy, Prof. William S. Morgan, Dr. Dudley Smith, W. S. Gould and R. C. Staats. At the conclusion of the speeches, an opportunity will be given for the asking of questions in regard to the amendments.

Pastor Returns From Opening $30,000 Home

Rev. John Friberg of Swedish Baptist Church, Aids Ceremonies in L. A.

Rev. John Friberg, of the Swedish Baptist Church, has just returned from Los Angeles, where he took part in the dedication ceremonies of the Swedish Baptist Old People's Home, which was constructed at a cost of over $30,000, is located just outside of Los Angeles, and is modern in every respect. The building just finished is only the first one, and the plans call for at least two additional buildings in order to accommodate the demand which has arisen in this work. The Swedish Baptists of the coast are sponsoring the movement and are also taking care of the financial end of it.

A special young people's meeting has been arranged for 5:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Swedish Baptist church when J. E. Carlson, president of the California Swedish BYPU will give a report on the two big BYPU conventions he attended while in the East. One was the convention of the American BYPU at Indianapolis in July and the other the convention of the United States and Canada held at Chicago in September. Mr. Carlson will also give a report on these meetings. This service will be conducted in English.

"Does Bride Need Christ?" To Be Discussed in First Sermon

At the First Presbyterian Church Sunday evening Dr. Frank M. Silsley, the pastor, will begin a series of sermons on "Home Life in the Bay District," having for his first subject, "Does the Bride Need Christ?" Speaking on the series, he said, "The Mayor of Alameda recently made the statement that apartment life is encroaching on home life. Is this true? Is no one life sadly in need of reformation?" Dr. Silsley will consider these questions. What equipment does a bride need? Is she equipped when she has a complete trousseau, a beautiful bungalow and an efficient husband? Should she be a slovenly and untidy affair? Is she married? Can she drop the church with impunity? Is she safe without Christ? Can she depend upon her own personality? Can she afford to begin married life with pagan ideals rather than Christian ideals?

The Temple Choir of 50 voices directed by Walter E. Kennedy will give an October night program in which some of the great compositions of the masters will be sung. At the close of the sermon, Kennedy will play Nevins' "Sketches of the City," in which he will interpret on the organ the characters and sounds on the streets of a great city.

At the morning service Dr. Silsley has for his topic, "The Christian as a Follower." The Christian at the midweek service, Wednesday evening, conducted by the Pastor, the subject will be the first chapter of the Gospel of John.

'Revelation' Is Congregational Minister's Topic

"The Revelation of God" is the subject of the sermon to be delivered tomorrow morning at the Calvary Congregational church by Rev. Harold Govette, the pastor.

In this sermon Rev. Govette states he will speak of the methods through which God revealed Himself to a man during the past ages and of the methods through which he is revealing himself to man today.

He proposes to answer the following questions: What do we know about God? Do we know anything about God? If we know anything about God how can we best impart that knowledge to others? And what benefits are to be derived from knowing God?

The theme of Rev. Govette's evening sermon is "The Road to Heaven and How to Get There." In dealing with this theme he proposes to answer the following questions: Are there several roads to heaven, or only one? If there is only one, which is the right one? What do we know about heaven? If there is a heaven, why is it that so few people are making any effort to get there?

A sermon will be delivered at the evening service by Rev. A. N. Rogers of Berkeley. Mrs. K. roll will sing "Let a Little Sunshine In," and the choir will render a number of selections.

Lutherans Plan Winter Program Of Bible Study

The program for the First Lutheran Church of which Dr. G. H. Hillerman is pastor, for this winter contemplates an extended and diversified course of systematic Bible instruction at all the services. The mornings of October and November are being devoted to the Book of Malachi, with practical applications to present day conditions. Tomorrow morning the topic will be "Wherein Have We Polluted God?" or "The Sin of Giving God the left-overs."

The evenings of the month past have been given to the story of Esther, the last of which will be presented tomorrow evening, under the theme "Where was God?" According to Dr. Hillerman, it is little known, even by the best Bible students, that in the Book of Esther the name of Jehovah appears four times in acrostic form, and in such a manner as to exclude the working of chance in its appearance. This is to be illustrated with a large chart to make visual the fact as related.

On Wednesday evenings a special course of dispensational studies on a rightly divided Word will be given, the opening study to be this coming Wednesday on "How to Study Your Bible for Profit."

CHAIR HOLDERS' ASSOCIATION MEETS MONDAY

Prayer groups have been organized, and other groups to assist those in the hospitals, conducting services of prayer and song for them. # DUCK HUNTERS REPORT MILLIONS OF BIRDS ON THE MARSHES

LEE ANDERSON VS. BERT COLIMA AND FRANKIE BURNS VS. FRANKIE FARREN MAIN EVENTS

Junior League Teams to Open Play Sunday

Four Divisions of Thirty Clubs to Swing Into Action On Many Diamonds

Tomorrow is the biggest day of the year for the Class B boys of the Oakland TRIBUNE Midwinter League. The first set of games for the hunting will be played. Last season twenty-six clubs completed the three divisions of the junior league, while this year four divisions of thirty clubs have been formed. Three of the divisions have eight clubs while the fourth has six. Pans should have little trouble in picking out a good contest. The brand of ball that was dished out by the B boys last season made a big hit with the fans.

HAVE FOLLOWING.
The Junior League boys have their own following and draw crowds as big as the senior clubs. On several of the diamonds fans will be treated to a pair of games. The San Pablo playgrounds, starting at 11 o'clock, the fans will witness two of the clubs in the Eastern division. The Dwight Shattuck Avenue Merchants and the San Pablo Merchants will start the ball at 11 o'clock. The West Brae and the Alpha Camp, W. O. W., are scheduled to play at Kenny Park, starting at 11 a. m.

At the Fruitvale depot park, starting at 11:15, the Kessler Army Corps Store tackle the St. Joseph Sodality nine in what promises to be a regular contest. The Rainbow Shaving nine open the season in the California division against the Key System Mechanics. This game will take place at Alberger Field at 12:30 o'clock. The second game of the day at Kenny park will be played between the Oakland Camp W. O. W. and the West Berkeley Merchants. This contest starts at 1 o'clock. The final game at Kenny park will be between the Oakland Scouts and the West Berkeley Athletic club. Fans have a chance to see three good games at this park.

FLORIO NINE READY.
The Florio Florigo No. 2 club is all ready for the grand opening tomorrow, and has promised their manager a victory. They tackle the Risdon Bakery boys, who have displayed a lot of spirit all summer. The Florio Florigo No. 2 club is a well-balanced club. These two teams start their game at 2:15. The Risdon is the home club, having grounds at the foot of Eighteenth avenue. At Druids No. 160 have an engagement for the opening of the Western division with the Wedgewood Camp, W. O. W. This game should bring out the fans in large numbers. The game starts at 2:30. The game at the Marre Bros. and the Golden Gate Merchants will play before the fans around Golden Gate when they start their contest at Golden Gate playgrounds at 1:50. One of these two clubs have given out their line-up, but have promised to give the fans a snappy game of ball.

The game scheduled at the Coast league grounds tomorrow morning between the Hayward Woodmen and Fitchburg Merchants has been switched to Fitchburg at 10:30.

GAME AT MELROSE.
At the Melrose diamond in the morning the Forest Camp W. O. W. and the United Dry Cleaners will open the season. The Knights of Pythias are all set for the game of the league according to Jack Garbutt, their manager. They start the season against the Old Orchard Camp team. This game will take place at Bushrod playgrounds No. 1, starting at 1:30. The game at the West Oakland are going to be treated with a TRIBUNE league game tomorrow when the Paradise Paint club and the Pacific Motor Supply nine hook up in their little argument. This game is scheduled to start at 1:30.

At Allendale the St. Joseph Athletic club and the College Avenue Merchants will cross bats. Jack Tehan, one of the managers of the Mother's Cookies, who had a berth in the Pacific division of the B league, has landed a well balanced club to start the league. Jack was in the A league last season, and has played a lot of ball around the state. His boys are booked to play the Mathews-Boitano boys from Cherry town. This game will be played at the San Leandro league park at 10:30.

Heel and Toe Boys to Exercise Oct. 28

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The National A. U., ten mile running and seven mile walking championships will be held at Macomb's Field, New York, Saturday, October 28, it was announced today.

Earl Johnson of Pittsburgh, present titleholder for the long distance run, will defend his crown and William Plant will defend his title in the walking event.

Lacrosse Popular With Canadian Boys

Lacrosse is gaining in popularity among young athletes of Canada. A Cornwell manufacturer recently sold 210 dozen boys sticks, 98 dozen youth sticks, 100 dozen larger boys' sticks, making a total of 408 dozen, or 4896 sticks. The Ontario Lacrosse league placed an order for the 150 dozen that started the demand for clubs.

Intercollegiate Conference Meets

Ducks Are Very Plentiful Dinsmore Brothers Report

In the case of The People vs. The Ducks take a couple of listens to W. H. L. (Billy) Hynes, one of the greatest little hunters that ever goaled a mallard.

"I've been hunting ducks since I was a kid but never in all my experience have I seen as many ducks as this season. The Suisun marshes where I have been shooting are literally alive with birds and it is no trick at all to shoot the limit. A bunch of us started shooting Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock and at 8 we were on our way home with the limit apiece. The only inconvenience is the mosquitoes. There are countless millions of the pests and they are the busiest in the land. The boys belonging to our club rubbed oil on their hands and faces and were not bitten much but it is annoying to have the pests buzzing around your head on a bright day drawing a bead on Mr. Duck."

Stuart Gemmel, dealer in marriage licenses, knocked over a score of fat spring last Tuesday.

Dr. O. D. Hamlin, George Gross, Charlie Gross and Norman de Vaux got across last Sunday the Kramen Express they shot at a rolling. The West Brae and the Alpha Camp, W. O. W., are scheduled to play at Kenny Park, starting at 11 a. m.

Ducks were so plentiful in town this week that even Peety Ryan was stepping towards the Del Monte with pair of spring ready for the oven.

The best news hunters have received since the opening of the season was the paragraph in these columns the other day telling of the arrival of Friend Canvass-back yesterday. They are usually later in coming south but arrived in a hurry this season.

Dinsmore Brothers, sporting goods dealers, garnered the following bunch of authentic hunting news this week:

"Bill" Weber and Milton Keyser say that the San Pablo Bay shooting has not even started, few birds being seen.

Frank Andrews says there are many spring flying into the ponds around Irvington, the shooting being better on Wednesdays than on Sundays.

J. E. Van Horn shot some canvassbacks Sunday at the Alameda canal, near the bridge. The birds were very young, evidently just arrived from the north. He thinks he will shoot nothing but "canas" this week.

Steve Gorgat says that the Alvarado ponds afford good shooting, the evening flight being the best.

Monroe Greenwood and Herbert Hall say limits are very common around Modesto and Livingston; the more the decoys the better shooting.

Jack Blesinso bags the limit every week-end at the Maxwell Gun club. He says there are a lot of birds flying but many of the boys fail to get good shooting because they will not allow the bands to work into the decoys before firing.

Pat Patton gets good shooting near Arubuckle but thinks that more birds can be taken during a bird day than Sunday. The birds were very fat and he thinks they will not allow the bands to work into the decoys before firing.

Phil Apperson, local ball player, is spending a couple of weeks with his folks at Dixon and as proof that the duck hunting up at that place is fine he sent a little bag of them to Ambrose Furrer to distribute among the boys.

Charlie White Again Contender for Belt

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—One round and 59 seconds of another and a left hook effectively dispelled any championship aspirations of Sid Marks and established Charlie White as a formidable contender for the lightweight belt.

In the true sense it was not a fight. The first round found both men feeling the other out. As the second round opened, both men seemed to have learned what they wanted to know and the news was anything but encouraging to Marks, who appeared decidedly uneasy and was practically beaten before White snapped a savage left hook over Marks' guard and ended the bout.

At Sequoyia yesterday the first round match play of the de Vaux Trophy was played. The Sequoyia women players have had such a strenuous week golfing that they were reluctantly compelled much to their regret to turn down the Berkeley Invitation Match in the first flight matches yesterday. Mrs. Hugo Lorber, Mrs. George Vesper, Mrs. A. E. Lorber and Mrs. Lee Dunham won their matches, and will now meet in the semi-final in the following order:

Mrs. Hugo Lorber (6) plays Mrs. Vesper (8).

Mrs. A. E. Lorber (6) plays Mrs. Dunham (9).

The second flight games went to Mrs. F. L. Dettman and Mrs. Roy Read, Mrs. W. B. West receiving a bye. Mrs. J. H. Stineman and Mrs. H. G. Meek will play off their match during the week. The pair

Duck Hunters Can Shoot at Public Clubs

WHERE can a hunter who does not belong to a private club get some sport?

That question is asked over the telephone several times every week. Members of private clubs know exactly where to go to knock off the limit, but the unattached hunter is worse than the man without a country unless he knows where outside nirrods are entertained. For the benefit of the great army of unattached hunters Dinsmore Bros. have secured the following list of lodges where blinds are provided and good shooting assured. The cost is generally five dollars per hunter:

The Fox Club at Los Banos.

J. Banchio Club at Gustine.

Island Gun Club at Los Banos.

THE BIRDS OF THE YEAR

By W. D. MONTGOMERY

The Berkeley Golf club has completed plans for its first annual club championship, which will be held on the links of the College City club two weeks from today.

Inasmuch as the date chosen by the Berkeley Club conflicts with the date set for the San Francisco city championship match at Lincoln park, it has been arranged to permit the golfers playing in the San Francisco city championship to qualify on the preceding day and thus participate in both tournaments.

Match play at Berkeley will be limited to the following Saturday until after November 30. Many trophies have been donated for the winners of the Berkeley tournament, among those donating trophies being: Tom Farmer, W. S. Hatch, A. F. Bookend, J. W. Haynes, J. F. Brooks, F. L. Naylor, W. E. Woolsey and C. B. Mills.

At Claremont today over 100 players will be busily engaged competing for their big annual event. Despite the fact that 128 players will secure places in the championship flight, every player engaged will endeavor to turn in his very best medal score. Several valuable trophies go to the winners of low gross, second low gross, low net, second low net for players with low and high handicaps. This helps to keep up the interest during the first day. As soon as the draws are made tonight they will be published, with starting times. Only one round of match play will be possible on Sunday, but three rounds will be possible over the following week end. Walter Wood promises to have the course in first class condition. The recent rains have helped to improve the fairways, but Claremont is not now dependent on rains as in former years.

At Sequoyia yesterday the first round match play of the de Vaux Trophy was played. The Sequoyia women players have had such a strenuous week golfing that they were reluctantly compelled much to their regret to turn down the Berkeley Invitation Match in the first flight matches yesterday. Mrs. Hugo Lorber, Mrs. George Vesper, Mrs. A. E. Lorber and Mrs. Lee Dunham won their matches, and will now meet in the semi-final in the following order:

Mrs. Hugo Lorber (6) plays Mrs. Vesper (8).

Mrs. A. E. Lorber (6) plays Mrs. Dunham (9).

The second flight games went to Mrs. F. L. Dettman and Mrs. Roy Read, Mrs. W. B. West receiving a bye. Mrs. J. H. Stineman and Mrs. H. G. Meek will play off their match during the week. The pair

THE GREATEST EXPOSITION.

As soon as Oakland and the Eastbay realizes to the fullest the scope and magnitude of the coming exposition on Public Health and Safety there will have been guaranteed for that exposition a record-breaking attendance.

It is at once fortunate and unfortunate, the name "Health and Safety." Unfortunate, because it will suggest to some an exposition of physicians and cures, a dry and technical, fearful and warning show. Fortunate because, with stirring educational and amusement features, it will carry over a message which will mean a longer span of life, fewer accidents, and greater safeguards. This is to be no show of horrible examples and patented devices. It is to represent widespread participation of Federal departments, Army, Navy, universities, city departments and others to present the largest show of its kind ever given west of the Mississippi. In many respects it will be unique.

Indicative of the enthusiasm with which Government agencies have promised co-operation is a summary of some of the features. There will be two hundred sailors on hand with life-saving drills and an exhibit of submarine operation; the Army will station two hundred men at the Auditorium to present their story, in the outlet to the lake, beside the exposition, the revenue cutter Bear, filled with curios and relics from the Far North, will be anchored; the Bureau of Mines will present a large cross section of the Argonaut mine and mine rescue work will be performed for the public; a four story house will be burned and a fire rescue act enacted by the Oakland Fire Department, and there will be baby shows, infant examination, hygiene exhibits from Stanford and the University of California. The Oakland school department, the recreation department, school architecture, milk products, nursing, fashion show, are some of the hundreds of other departments and activities to be represented.

By far the largest part of the show will be given over to the established government, state, and city departments and will be given over without charge. The private exhibits are limited to ones which have proper place in such a show.

The Public Health and Safety Exposition will be held in the Oakland Auditorium from November 17 to 25. At a similar exposition in New York, one no larger in its scope, the streets were jammed with persons desiring admittance and all door records were broken. So large will this Oakland exposition be that a hundred thousand persons must attend to meet the expenses. In undertaking the project a full measure of courage and confidence has been displayed that Oakland and the Eastbay can show the state, once more, its educational leadership and its unique civic enterprise.

SEEK OUT THE CAUSE

Until the investigation is completed one may not place the blame for the school riot in Los Angeles. One may wonder, though, at the cause of rivalry so intense as to be responsible for an attack by men armed with gasoline bombs and clubs upon a defenseless gathering of students.

While the men and women of the University Branch at Los Angeles were participating in an orderly rally on the eve of a football game with Occidental College, more than five hundred students, said to have come from the University of Southern California, descended upon them in so fierce an attack that four were seriously injured. So far as the state had known and so far as the officials of the two institutions were aware, there was no occasion for any feeling except those of healthy rivalry.

Probably it will be discovered that the advance of the five hundred was planned, originally, as a lark. Excitement of a crowd and a mob and in that mob, as is always the case, there were those who reverted to savagery. It is beyond belief that the five hundred started out with the intent to maim and injure and that each of the five hundred was aware of those in the crowd who carried the gasoline bombs. The investigation should be thorough and immediate and the blame should be fixed. In the meantime it should be remembered that the branch of the University of California was holding a peaceful rally at the time the attack took place and no blame, in this affair, can be placed upon the students of the State institution.

GREECE WILL "COME BACK"

If anyone feels inclined to fear that Greece is in a way to pass wholly from the world stage because of the tremendous reverses which she has suffered recently, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society, he has only to glance back into history to change his mind.

There are few parallels to the striking racial phenomenon of Hellenic continuity throughout the vicissitudes of 2,000 years. Modern research has penetrated the dark byways of medieval Greek history, and we now know that the Greeks, whatever their temporary fate, have preserved unbroken the thread of their national existence.

The firmest bond which unites the Greek of today with his forebears of the golden age is the Greek language, the essential elements of which remain as they were in the days when the tongue served as the medium of the noblest poetry and the sublimest philosophy which the race has yet produced. This tongue traces its unbroken lineage back through medieval and New Testament Greek to the classic speech of Plato and of his contemporaries.

And yet, with all this continuity of language, there has existed in Greece for some years a linguistic condition of affairs around which centers a controversy at once comic or tragic; for there are in Greece two languages, or, rather, the one language in two forms—one written by the newspapers, spoken by the educated classes, and used in parliamentary debates and in public documents, including the Scriptures, the circulation of which is regulated by law; and the other a vernacular used by the masses of the people, containing many words of foreign origin, especially Turkish and Italian, arising from those periods of foreign occupation, with a much simplified grammar and rarely reduced to writing, except for private communications. The former is the cultured tongue; the latter the popular idiom; and between the two there rages a merciless warfare, in which fanatical students of the university have lost their lives, ministers their portfolios, and a Metropolitan of Athens his miter.

Greece of today looks back only three generations, if one places its origin in the War of Independence, which was concluded by the Protocol of London in 1830: and, witnessing the progress which in that brief span has been made in a land of such sparse resources, one cannot see how praise can be withheld from a people who have accomplished so much.

SIGNS OF BUSINESS BOOM.

Figures from all lines of industry indicate the United States is in an exceedingly prosperous condition. If the effects of the coal and rail strikes could be removed at once it would be evident to everyone the country was experiencing the greatest business boom of the generation.

Building statistics for the country up to September 1 beat the total for the first eight months of any year in history. Postal savings deposits, which had been decreasing, show a heavy gain and the postal receipts are more than ten per cent higher than in the corresponding month a year ago.

Turning back to the building statistics one finds that for eight months in 1922 the sum is $2,362,572,000, or $7,000,000 greater than in the entire year of 1921. Twenty-one per cent of the total, an unusually high percentage, is in industrial plant development, evidence the manufacturing world is preparing for a period of good times and an increase in output. One finds the same story told in the tendency of prices to soar in the stock market, in the employment situation and car loadings.

TO CROSS A STREET AND LIVE

Not many persons have mastered the art of crossing a street. They go at it in a slapdash manner or else with that supreme confidence born in small towns, where traffic is neither so hectic nor so voluminous as in New York.

To any one wishing to learn this art—and all good Manhattanites should do so—the following technique is suggested:

First—Look before you leap. Is the traffic heavy? If so, wait. Is it systematically stopped by a traffic policeman, as on Fifth avenue? If so, watch for his signal.

Second—As you are making up your mind to cross give the automobile the benefit of the doubt if there is any question as to which one of you will reach a given spot first.

Third—If it is a one-way street, concentrate your attention on the direction from which the cars are coming. Otherwise look first to the left and then to the right. If the way is clear, go ahead, watching to the left until you are halfway over, and then watching to the right. If necessary, stop in the middle, between the two streams of traffic, but don't forget that so long as you go so you are in danger. It is better not to cross than to cross in two or more jumps.

Finally, don't lose your head. A driver can try to avoid you if you keep a steady course, but if you suddenly act like a chicken you invite the fate of a chicken. "He who hesitates is lost."

In short, the entire matter is one of common sense. The burden of the "safety week" campaign is to avoid unnecessary risks. The slogan "Don't get hurt" is merely another version of "Use your head." And yet few persons do this when they cross a street.—New York Tribune.

Just to show the above-mentioned to find something to rhyme with Parinkle, I would add:

 Said Spynkevintz to Parinkle,
 "Did you ever see a star twinkle?"
 As bad on any street

Said Parinkle to Spynkevintz,

 Spynkevintz, "I hope may."

Said S. to P., "It's funny what a

 —then casting a look at his list'ning ear, Juliet crept down, with a look at fear—when across the

NOTES and COMMENT

Chicago News: "It looks as if a conciliatory friend to Mayor Couzens, Mr. Thompson extended his hand. Mr. Thompson completely failed to see it."

Salt Lake Tribune: "The world is increasing its dependence upon the United States for refined sugar. Exports of refined sugar in the current calendar year will far exceed those of any earlier year in the history of our refining and export trade. In fact, the total quantity of refined sugar exported in the seven months of the current year for which we have now a record is greater than in any full year preceding, and is thirty times as much as in the year preceding the opening of the war."

According to Capper's Weekly, Solomon's job has been eclipsed by a modern instance. "Judge Sullivan of Jersey City has a bigger job of judging than Solomon ever had. Solomon had to give a baby to one of two women. Judge Sullivan has to find out how Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rich's baby boy turned out to be a girl. When it was born in a hospital the attending physician told Mrs. Rich it was a boy. Some time later the nurse informed her the child was a girl. Now Mrs. Rich believes the hospital is trying to persuade her to take a child not her own. She has refused to accept the baby and it has been taken to a municipal institution."

He thus repaid the mighty snub which the Mayor of Detroit administered to the Mayor of Chicago by mail about a year ago. Invited to Chicago to make an address, Mayor Couzens wrote then to Mayor Thompson that he would not accept so long as Mr. Thompson was mayor of Chicago. "THIS HURTS ME MORE THAN YOU."

That night I said: "This hurts me more than ever it hurts you." Than ever it hurts you, I used to wonder why my dad said he was hurt when I was bad.

I had the small boy's notion then, I suffered all alone. Mine was the pain of censure when I drew the scolding and the blame, I hung my wilful head in shame. But this is what I never knew: That others had to suffer, too.

Some day, when he is older grown I know he'll mutter, too, Unto a younger brother of his own: "This hurts me more than you." He'll learn, as I have come to learn, The hurt and ache of being stern. And when to bed his boy is sent He'll know just what his father meant.

About YOUR HEALTH!

Why "Hydro-Nephrosis" Requires Very Skillful Care

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 Commissioner of Health,
 New York City.

On your visits to the butcher shop you have seen the kidneys of many animals. You have observed the smooth, shining surface of the bean-shaped organ. Perhaps you noted the firmness of the tissues which are inclosed in a dense capsule or jacket.

The human kidney looks just the same. It is smaller than those seen at the market, but, in shape and appearance it is like them. The human kidney is about four inches long.

When a kidney is cut in two lengthwise it is found to contain a hollow space. This is called the sinus or the pelvis of the kidney.

The kidney filters out of the blood certain solid substances and a considerable quantity of fluid. An endless number of little tubes carry the fluid into a dozen cavities, each of which is called a calyx. These calyces empty into the pelvis of the kidney, and from the pelvis the fluid passes into the ureter, a structure not unlike a ten-inch piece of small rubber tubing. The ureter opens into the bladder, which acts as a reservoir for the product of the two kidneys.

Health and comfort demand that the filtering tubes, the pelvis and the ureter shall be open and capable of discharging the urine as fast as generated.

There are certain diseases in which this normal process is interrupted cannot be called a disease today.

Only recently the papers were filled with accounts of the sufferings of a prominent person who was said to have hydro-nephrosis. What in the world is hydro-nephrosis? Certainly the name is a big one, but what does it mean?

The word itself means "water in the kidney." At once you will say: "Certainly, but there should be water there, and, therefore, the condition cannot be called a disease."

In hydro-nephrosis there is an undue accumulation of water in the pelvis of the kidney. This comes about because there is an obstruction to the free drainage of fluid from this cavity. Damming back causes the pelvis to dilate, and, when the fluid gathers in sufficient quantity there is great pain from pressure on the delicate tissues surrounding and opening into the cavity.

The seriousness of this disability depends on the cause of the obstruction. If it is some passing trouble, due perhaps to congestion, it may be relieved speedily. Some persons have recurring attacks of hydro-nephrosis which are overcome within a few hours, but which reappear for years. These are the favorable cases.

Tuberculosis or cancer may cause the development of a tumor which presses on the ureter and prevents the escape of fluid out of the pelvis of the kidney.

After operation bands of scar tissues may interrupt the drainage and result in hydro-nephrosis.

A movable or "floating" kidney may produce a kink or twist in the ureter, cutting off the normal escape of urine. Sometimes the accumulation of fluid is so great that a tumor or swelling forms, which may be mistaken for an abdominal or ovarian tumor.

In every case hydro-nephrosis is a serious trouble, which perplexes the medical profession and causes worry and pain for the victim. Skillful care is helpful always.

REPLIES TO HOLMES.

To the Editor of THE Tribune:

I am 33 years of age, married and the father of five children, which I hope to bring up good Americans. My salary is $4.55 per day; am buying a home, sending three of the children to school. If I can do it, why can't other people do the same? The idea of the State paying a bonus for each child of a professor! It puts the good plain American workman down as a clown.

Do you think where I am employed that I am asked how many children I have and do they give me a bonus? They do not. I think if the women of today—I don't say all of them, but most of them would go back to our mothers' days and live within their means, stop wearing silk stockings at $2.00 a pair, etc., they could afford the blessing of a child or two in the homes. But, no, you will see them sitting in an auto with a dog in their arms. Is that what Professor Holmes calls higher blood?

I suppose it was the best blood, or the higher blood, that went to war, bought Liberty Bonds, worked in the ship yards, etc. Now, I didn't go to war, but I worked in the ship yards, bought Liberty Bonds, was saving stamps and gave to the Red Cross. And yet I am not considered high blood, because I am not a professor. It is outrageous to read such articles as Professor Holmes wrote.

BOY AVENGER SUSPECTED IN SLAYING

Youth Shot Down Behind
Theater Believed Victim of Vendetta By "Gang" Involved in Petty Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Police are searching today for members of the boys "gang" who, it is suspected, may be responsible for the murder of 16-year-old Thomas J. McCormick last night behind the New Mission Theater, on Bartlett street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second.

Five revolver shots breaking in upon a film play in progress at the theater caused patrons of the house to rush from the building. In the rear of the theater they found McCormick dying, with bullet wounds in the heart, the left shoulder and the left hand. He was rushed to the Emergency hospital, but died on the way.

Police Corporal Fred Suttman, who took charge of the investigation of the shooting, said that the boy had recently been in some petty trouble with the police, together with some companions.

Evidence which he found last night, he said, was to the effect that some of the boys' companions had accused him of having acted as a "stool pigeon" in connection with the affair. The possibility that this may have operated as a motive for the shooting is being investigated by Corporal Suttman today.

The slain youth was the son of Thomas McCormick, and lived at 37 Hill street. He left his home at 6:30 o'clock last night, the father said after obtaining money to visit the New Mission Theater. It is believed he was on his way home from the theater when the shooting took place.

Candy Factory in Own Home Begun by Oakland Women

By FRANCES MONTGOMERY
Have you a little candy factory in your home?

In the basement of one of Oakland's beautiful homes today there is a carpenter building tables to prepare candy on, a shelf to hold the marble slab on which to mix the fondant, racks to hold the trays of delicious caramels and goodies while they cool.

How would you like to go down to your basement some morning and find 150 pounds of different ("So Different") kinds of candy and sweets?

That is what Mrs. Emil Fritsch will do some morning next week. Mrs. Fritsch, prominent Oakland society and club woman, is really installing a very modern and wonderfully artistic candy "factory," for so she calls it, in the attractive basement rooms of her home at 675 Santa Ray avenue.

Mrs. Fritsch has a partner, Mrs. George Ebel, whose home is at 760 Calmer, holds half interest in the new venture. These two enthusiastic women have long cherished secret plans to embark on a business venture of their own and their fame as expert confectioners of perfect confectionery has grown since the annual bazaar drives of the West Oakland Home, they held full sway at the candy booth for five consecutive years.

So it was left to Mrs. Ebel, just returned from Paris and imbued with the spirit of the French women who were doing things, to present the long talked-of plan in the new light of practical possibility, and on having decided to embark on a business career, the partners wisely chose the thing in which they were most efficient and interested—candy.

"Yes," assured Mrs. Fritsch at her home yesterday, where the two business partners were engaged in overseeing the progression of "the factory." "We know this is going to be a success. Not in any little way, but in a big way which will make our goods the purest and best confectionery on the market."

Mrs. Fritsch is the business manager and director, while Mrs. Ebel will attend to the sales and mail order business.

LAKE LIGHT CONTEST IS NATION-WIDE

Landscape Architect Says
Aim Is to Obtain Finest
Design Possible for "Necklace" For Lake Merritt

As the result of a meeting yesterday evening in the office of City Treasurer Bert Anderson, a nationwide contest will be held for designs for the permanent lighting poles which will ring Lake Merritt.

Only professional artists and architects will compete.

"We want the very finest designs possible," says Landscape Architect Howard Gilkey, "and we want the greatest artists and architects to compete if they will do so. The 295 light poles around Lake Merritt will be permanent, and they must be so designed that they are not only harmonious with the scenery of the lake but will refrain from conflicting with the striking reflections and shadows of Lake Merritt itself. It is all a study of harmony in design."

The competition will be announced by the Oakland officials to the artists and architects of the whole nation, and it planned that the contest shall close January 15. A prize will be offered, it is planned, and arrangements to this end are now going forward.

Meantime, Commissioner W. J. Baccus is starting to get donations

School Survey Shows Need of Space For 18,000 More Students by 1927

Asserting that "we must provide for 18,000 additional students by 1927," Superintendent of Schools Fred M. Hunter today completed a survey of the entire school needs of the city with an eye to a proposed future bond issue for new schools.

Many districts have already complained of a lack of school facilities, and the superintendent was requested to make this survey for the future, in order that the various districts may be assured of school space in the years to come.

The bond issue of 1919 for schools was about $5,000,000 and the city, according to Hunter, is already growing past these new facilities, tending to point to the certainty of a new bond issue of about the same amount, or serious school shortages.

18,000 MORE EXPECTED.
The old bond issue provided 11 new buildings and 21 additions, or a total of 343 classrooms to accommodate 12,100 pupils. Hunter estimates that in five more years, at the present growth, there will be 18,000 additional students to accommodate in schools already full.

There are now 5370 students housed in overcrowded classes, though some of the schools under the old bond issue are not yet completed.

Hunter estimates the needed additions for the year future to be about as follows:

Two new high schools, 5 additions; 1 junior high school, 8 additions; 10 elementary schools, 38 additions. This total means 219 more elementary classes, 157 for junior high schools, and 175 for high schools of 551 more classes.

A complete report of the condition of each district will be tendered Monday to the board of education by Hunter. This will suggest just what should be done in each locality. Funds are also needed, according to Hunter, for alterations and improvements to grounds.

SURVEY INTRICATE.
It is admitted that this survey is an intricate one, and many of its propositions are based on

THE following will be the needs of the Oakland schools, so far as room is concerned, in the near future, according to the report which Superintendent Fred M. Hunter has compiled:

Two new high schools.
Five high school additions.
One new junior high school.
Eight additions to junior high schools.
Ten new elementary high schools.
38 additions to elementary schools.
This provides for 175 more classes in high schools; 157, junior high; 219, elementary; total, 551.

mere estimates as to the probable growth of any particular district as compared to the growth of any other district. This is admittedly a hard survey to make, as present tendencies of growth in the city may change, it is conceded.

But the survey in general is based, according to Hunter, on the assured needs of the city as a whole, even at its present growth, and if a greater growth is experienced, the matter of schools is held to be even more urgent.

Oakland high school, for instance, seems to demand 85 more instructional rooms, and most of these are provided for in present plans under the old bond issue; but land is held to be badly needed for school additions and school grounds, unless Oakland high school is to be constructed within present limits for all time.

The survey, according to Hunter, will be accompanied by a complete set of maps showing the ratio of growth in every portion of the city, and the estimated future growth. Expansion in newly developed districts, especially the new tracts in the foothills, furnishes another cause for the survey the schools, according to Hunter.

The present rate of growth is estimated at 10,000 for two years or 5000 per year. With this rate, it is asserted, school facilities are already extended to the limit in some districts and coming to that situation in others.

GRAPE GROWERS URGED TO ORDER CARS THEY NEED

Pacific Fruit Express Com- pany to Consider Dis- tribution of Carriers.

L. B. Bailey, secretary of the Local Growers' and Shippers' League, has issued a general letter to grape growers to order as many cars as they believe they could use. He stated that the Pacific Fruit Express company announces that it will now give consideration to the distribution of cars for the grape districts according to orders received. Fresno growers, Bailey states, have been able to obtain cars because growers persisted in ordering all they thought they could load every day, while locally an agreement has been in operation whereby growers were prorated cars according to their acreage. Bailey believes the new order of things will be a great influx of refrigerator cars to this district.

OUTER HARBOR TRAFFIC BRINGS ACTIVE PERIOD

Parr Terminal to Be Kept Busy by Shipping During Coming Week.

A busy month-end looms ahead for the Parr Terminal at the outer harbor. In addition to the coastwise traffic, four big offshore steamers are scheduled to arrive and discharge or take on cargo. The products stowed away in the holds of these odors are as varied as the contents of the shelves of a country general merchandise store.

As an example of what Oakland importers are receiving by way of the water can be enumerated the Elliceuta, which is bringing in a big shipment of sulphur from Freeport, L. I., the Ocean Prince, which has aboard a big shipment of pig iron and steel, from European ports; and the Romus, coming from South and Central America, with scrap steel and nitre. The Willipole is coming in to load canned goods and fruit for Atlantic coast ports.

The coastwise service is equally varied. All of the big steamers will be in during the next ten days.

Puget Sound and Columbia river cargoes, both incoming and going, are keeping the stevedores busy at the outer harbor wharves this week. The Boobyalla, St. Catherine and Canadian Observer all discharged this past week. The incoming cargoes were mostly lumber, while those departing consisted of grain, canned goods, and miscellaneous merchandise.

WEATHER REPORT

FORECAST
Oakland and vicinity: Northern California, Sacramento, Santa Clara and San Joaquin Valleys—Tonight and Sunday fair, moderate northerly winds.

Southern California—Tonight and Sunday fair, except cloudy or foggy in the morning near the coast; moderate northerly winds.

Utah and Idaho—Tonight and Sunday fair, heavy frost early morning.

Washington—Tonight and Sunday fair, except probably rain west portion, heavy frost east portion to night, gentle variable winds, becoming light.

Oregon—Tonight and Sunday fair, heavy frost east portion tonight; gentle variable winds.

CONCLUSIONS

A large high pressure area over-les the North Pacific states and another of similar character over the entire Pacific coast. No precipitations of consequence have occurred in the United States during the last 24 hours. It is really in portions of the northern states between the Rocky Mountain states and the Lakes region. It is decidedly cooler in Nevada, Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington and Idaho, where heavy frost formed this morning. The outlook is for fair weather in the San Francisco region and the district on Sunday, except rain is probable in Western Washington. Heavy frost will form again Sunday morning in Nevada, Idaho, Eastern Oregon and Eastern Washington.

INDUSTRIES TO BE ASKED VIEWS ON WATER DISTRICTAugmented Committee Lays Plans For Campaign to Forestall Shortage.

Encouraged by hearty responses from Contra Costa county industrial plants concerning the advisability of forming a public utilities district, the mayors and public officials of the Eastbay cities, gathered in Mayor Davis' office yesterday evening, decided to enlarge their "committee of inquiry" which will ascertain the attitudes of the water-consuming industries as a prelude to a campaign for a water district, culminating in an election May 8.

The present committee includes Mayor Garrard of Richmond and Engineer Marston Campbell of Oakland. These visited the Standard Oil Company and the California-Hawaiian Sugar Company, and announced that they have just started.

The augmented committee will include Mayor Louis Borlett and Councilman George Schmidt of Berkeley and City Manager C. E. Hickock and City Attorney W. J. Locke of Alameda.

COMPLAINTS PLEDGE AID. Representatives of the Standard Oil and the sugar company appeared at the meeting and emphasized that they are hampered by the present lack of water in Contra Costa and are willing to assist the formation of a utilities district by any means in their power. Warren H. McBryde of the sugar company said he was ready to work for the success of the project along the Contra Costa bay shore, where other industries are worried about the water situation.

Queries sent out by Secretary Harold Weber received a few favorable replies so far from local industries. "So far as the Contra Costa and other districts are concerned," said Locke, "the election is earned. They understand the situation. But the people of Oakland and the other more populous cities do not realize the situation."

"Folks do not often see beyond the fact that water comes when they turn the faucets," said Campbell. "They do not realize that this condition cannot exist very long if the population increases according to the present ratio, and the water supply does not increase."

EDUCATION FEELS SHORTAGE. "We have been passed up often by big industries," said Mayor Garrard of Richmond, "because we could not assure them a sufficient water supply even now."

"The same has begun to apply to Oakland," said Mayor Davis. "The water situation is very marked."

The augmented committee will interview all the big water users it can reach, and will report at the next meeting, at the call of the chair. It is admitted frankly that a campaign of education must be carried on if the water district plan is to be a success, and the question is whether or not the water users are interested enough to assist with their contributions toward a successful campaign which is planned to start the solution of the Eastbay water situation.

MARTINEZ COURT
WEDDING BARES
DOMESTIC SNARLAlleged Wife Seeks Bridegroom and Man Gets On Trail of Bride.

Possibility of official investigation into the marriage on Tuesday of Cyril C. Fawcett, San Francisco bond broker, and Miss Beate Annonson, candy girl of 2121 Twenty-fifth avenue, loomed today as a result of statements made yesterday by a woman claiming to be Fawcett's undivorced wife.

On Tuesday last, Fawcett and Miss Annonson exchanged vows in the historic city of Martinez, while Justice of the Peace Frank Glass pronounced the fateful words that made them man and wife, but that was on Tuesday last.

Late yesterday afternoon, an irate woman, who said she was a wife, appeared at the office of the county recorder in Martinez and asked for a certified copy of the marriage license secured by Fawcett and Miss Annonson. Her male companion sought out Judge Glass for a copy of the marriage certificate.

The information was vouchsafed to the county recorder that the seeker after information was none other than Mrs. Fawcett, who claimed to be the first and undivorced wife of the new bridegroom and the mother of his two children.

WILL LEAVE IT TO COURT.

After securing the evidence desired, she inquired for District Attorney A. B. Thuring of Contra Costa county, and on learning that he was away, announced that she intended to let the law take its course with her husband.

Meanwhile, in Oakland, where he was stopping at the home of his bride, Fawcett denied the existence of first wife and said that there was some misunderstanding. According to his story, his wife died in Los Angeles in 1912 and his only child, a girl, is now in the southern city.

Fawcett said that he was a bond broker residing at the Stewart hotel in San Francisco. The Stewart hotel said that there was no Fawcett registered there.

The marital mix-up is the outcome of a series of circumstances recently called to the attention of the local police.

Last Monday morning in the wee sma' hours, Mrs. C. C. Fawcett, of 1215 High street, called the Alameda police department to report the disappearance of her husband, a San Francisco bond broker. She told the officers that he had been away from home since the previous Saturday.

MISS ANNONSON SOUGHT. Following her call, the police were asked to institute a search for Fawcett. Annonson was a young man who said that he had been missing for several days. Miss Annonson was an employee of the Virgin Candy shop in Alameda. She had asked for a vacation on Monday last and said she would return in a week.

Then, almost immediately after reporting her husband missing, Mrs. Fawcett packed her grips and, leaving her two children, left her Alameda residence and disappeared from sight. Yesterday's visit to the county recorder in Martinez, she had not been seen by friends.

Last night Fawcett and his bride were at her home in Alameda. Today they, too, had dropped from sight, leaving word with members of the family that "the whole thing was a mistake" and that they were going to San Francisco.

District Attorney Thuring, of Contra Costa county, said today that he had received no word from the Mrs. Fawcett who sought information concerning the marriage.

Mother Takes Name
Carried by Son

Because her son by a former marriage was known under the name of Mook, Mrs. Mabel P. Block yesterday was allowed to change her name to Mabel T. Quinn. Superior Judge John Quinn signed the order after hearing Mrs. Block's story.

The witness stated that at her first marriage, her husband's name was Mook. A child was born to this union, the father later dying. Mrs. Mook then married a man named Block.

She secured a divorce from Block some time ago. She told the court that she desired to have the same name as that borne by her son.

Harvill, federal officer and a posse of prohibition men. Boyd was lodged in the Alameda city jail. Bail was set at $100.
